PREFACE

From Pilgrim days of our Country's birth, stalwart and honorable men by the name of HOLMAN have cast their lives and energy into the fabric of this great Republic. To-day the Head of the Nation comes of this family, through his most noble and gracious mother.

The South has sent out the name to all of the States of the South and West, since the early landings in the beautiful valleys of Virginia at Jamestown in 1607.

The North has spread its character and influence through the name from pulpit, bench and honest ploughshare—from Dorchester, Boston, Salem and the fertile and lofty "Holman Hill," at West Newbury, Mass.

The descendants of the name have passed through every hardship of pioneer life—fought in the battles of hostile Indians—shared in the struggles of early Colonial days—the strife of the Revolution, when sixty-five young men by the name of Holman were on the field from the State of Massachusetts—the War of the Secession, with its long list of sons of the name who conscientiously fought on either side—and even on the Battleship Maine, there was on active duty at the time of her destruction in the Harbor of Havana, Cuba, Lieut. George Frederick Warren Holman.

The name has gone out to the New States—to the very mountain tops—and by the seas, to the ends of the Earth. Out of all the rush of life and its thousand calls upon one's time, some may wish to look backward to their ancestral home and the beginning of their race in America, and to the place, where the very trees bending in the wind, seem to point the way to the last resting-place, where lie the bodies of Solaman Holman and his wife Mary (Barton) Holman; whose "Beautiful life barques speed on over the rippling seas of Eternity."

MAJOR DAVID E. HOLMAN.

INTRODUCTION

The time of the compiler of this volume has been so much occupied during the hours of day and evening, that the work of this printed record has been done between the hours of half-past two and six o'clock in the morning, with the exception of searching the vital statistics of towns and records of wills and deeds.

Great assistance has been rendered by the willing attention of town clerks and court officials, but more especially by MR. FRANK HOLMAN, of Paris, France.

MR. H. WILSON HOLMAN, of London, England, who is the Historian of the English name.

MR. ALFRED LYMAN HOLMAN, of Chicago, Ill., who has prepared the line of John Holman, of Dorchester, Mass.

MR. FRANK NEWTON HOLMAN, of Springfield, Mass., who most generously offered all of his collection of notes, although he himself was nearly ready to publish.

MISS IDA B. HOLMAN, of San Antonio, Texas, who gathered many facts of the Virginia family of the name.

MR. FREDERICK V. HOLMAN, of Portland, Oregon,—himself an author,—supplied much material of the North Carolina branch of Thomas Holman, of Surrey Co., 1730.

COL. JAMES HARDY HOLMAN, of Fayetteville, Tenn., who was authority for many of his line.

MR. WALTER DAVIDSON, a son of Judith Chase Holman,—a member of the Antiquarian Society of Worcester, Mass.

MISS ISABELLE HOLMAN WATERS, of Millbury, Mass., who was much interested in the line of her cousin, the President, as a descendant of Col. Jonathan Holman, the Revolutionary hero.

REV. HARVEY MERRILL LAWSON, of Brookfield, Mass., who gave many notes on the descendants of Dea. Thomas Holman, of Sutton, but later of Conn.

MR. EARL ELLSWORTH HOLMAN, of West Alexandria, Ohio, who showed great interest in the line of Old George Holman, who was captured by Indians.

MRS. ROSAMOND E. WAITE, of North Jay, Me., for her loyalty to her birth name.

MRS. O. M. C. HOLMAN, of Newton, Mass., for her interest in the name, not hers by birth.

MRS. AMELIA (DAGGETT) SHEFFIELD, for her most kind words of my father and mother.

MRS. IRA HOLMAN, of Leominster, Mass.

MR. EUGENE and MISS ETTA HOLMAN, of Dixfield, Me. And to many others from every section of America, who have spent their time and thoughts to have their families correctly placed in this printed volume.

Lack of courtesy was shown only twice to the compiler of these records, while seeking information from persons of the name. Once in New York—where time is so valuable—the interview was timed by the holding of a watch in the hand. The other time was in a Massachusetts town, by a prosperous manufacturer, when both father and son, with their feet elevated to the top of the piazza railing, treated their caller much after the style of a peddler. All requests to him by letter for information were always unanswered. But in looking up their vital statistics it was found that their father was himself registered as a peddler at time of the birth of one of the children.

Many errors and lack of record must in great part be laid to the carelessness and sometimes indifference of those possessing the same, or able to obtain it by a little effort. Even now the author will be very grateful to any one who will be able to add any date of birth, marriage or death or the locating of a family left out of this printed edition; or any one who will correct any of the numerous mistakes found in the following pages.

This book, only intended as a brief sketch, which some time someone may complete and make perfect, will deal with some miscellaneous records, then the early accounts of many of the different branches of the Holman family, and lastly of Solaman Holman (one tradition says that he was born in Wales), who located in 1792-3 on the rich, productive and well-watered farm of 80 acres on the hilltop at West Newbury, Mass., some seven miles from Newburyport. The farm at present comprises 68 acres and is owned by Mr. E. F. Southwick.

A rare source of water lies on the very crown of the hill, a spring, which forms a small pool of water, now full of flags and cat-o'-nine tails.

After three generations all traces of this first family of twelve children have left the place of their birth and gone out into the world. The wide lane, nearly a mile in length, made as a highway to the church built by our first ancestor, has become deserted and filled with the bushes of the Wild Rose, which bloom "In memoriam."

SCENES FROM WALES.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME

An interesting fact is the derivation of the name of Holman. The root word is "holme," meaning a flat meadow land lying between the windings of a valley stream, therefore the people who lived in such places were called "holmers," or "dwellers in the holmes." One man would be called a "holmer or holman," hence Holman. The name Holmes being a contraction of it. The old English records show distinctly this origin and change.

In ancient times on the Scandinavian Peninsula, the word "Holmgang" signified that two men would go to an island and fight for possession of it until one died. Then, the other would live in possession of the land, and was a Holmer or Holman.

Holman may be a contraction of "Holyman," but is more likely to be "whole man,"—a man of sterling mettle. It must be recollected that in medieval English, whole was spelt without the "w," and the commonest form of the name in the XIV. and XV. Centuries was Holeman.—Patronimica Britannica.

It has been suggested that the name Holman is of Dutch origin. This is borne out by a list of foreigners who settled in London in 1567-8. It was necessary for all foreigners who settled in London and other towns to be registered and have permits. The original of this list is at present among the Landsdown, M. S. S., Vol. X, No. 62, British Museum. See also proceedings of Huguenot Society, Vol. 1, pp. 21-24. Dutch Denizens,—Hendrick Holman, resident three years; Mary Holman, resident two years.

EXTRACTS FROM CAMDENS (ENGLAND) SOCIETY PUBLICATIONS

Thomas Holman gave eight pence toward building of the Rodmin Parish Church, 1340-1. A resident of the town.

On page 202, Dr. Holyman is mentioned as supporting the divorce of Catherine with Henry VIII. This Dr. Holyman was a member of the University of Oxford.

John Holman, D. D., 1495-1558, New College, Oxford, 1512. A Fellow of New College. A Monk of St. Mary's Abbey, Reading; Rector of Ham-borough; Vicar of Wing-Bucks, 1546; Bishop of Bristol, first year of reign of Mary, 1553. He tried Bishops Ridley and Latimer. He was a Romanist, but did not advocate the death penalty.

1680—Northamptonshire, England. Sir John Holman stated that he knew not that his brother, George Holman, was a Papist, but that he was abroad in Paris, and had been so for thirty years.

1680—December—Popish Recusants. Hugh Walker, a Papist, had lived thirteen or fourteen years with Sir Thomas Holman, at Somerset House, as groom.

There are a large number of Holman Wills preserved at Exeter, England, both in the Principal Registry, and also in those of the Archdeaconries of Exeter. Among these are:

John Holman, Christowe, 1617.

John Holman, Drewsteignton, 1617.

NORTHAMPTON, SURREY, ENGLAND

William Holman returned for Gallon Boro', Surrey, to the Parliament summoned to meet at Westminster Nov. 20, 1459.

William Holman returned for Dorchester Boro', Sept. 11, 1553.

Sir John Holman, Bart. of Banbury, returned for Banbur Boro', Feb. 17, 1678, Northampton.

These three notes from the return of Members of Parliament 1213-1702, were printed by order of House of Commons, Mar. 1, 1898.

Robert Holman is mentioned in a Norman French Deed in Barnstable records dated 1308, as Alderman. Another Robert, 1425.

Thomas Holman returned for Barnstable Boro' with Robert Napton, for the Parliament summoned to meet at Westminster Jan 22, 1396-7. Thomas Holman's wife, Margery, mentioned in old dedication of St. Anns' Chantry, 1459.

There are sixteen Wills, 1515-1700, of Northampton, consisting of Edmond, Edward, Thomas, James, John, Richard, William, Robert and Michael.

LIEUT. JAMES HOLMAN, THE "BLIND TRAVELLER"

Lieut. James Holman was born at Exeter. Oct. 15, 1786, and died in London, July 28, 1857. He was universally known as the "Blind Traveller." He entered the Navy in 1798 and served until 1811 on the Home and North American stations. In this year he was invalided in consequence of severe rheumatism, induced by hard service, and shortly after was attacked with ophthalmia, which deprived him of his sight. 1812-1819, University of Edinburgh, and he then journeyed to every place of note in the world,—two thousand miles into Siberia. He resided as a Naval Knight at Windsor, and here wrote his books. He wrote, "Voyages and Travels, Russia," 2 vols. "Through France," 1 vol. "A Voyage Around the World," 1 vol.

"Yet you see how the world goes."

Gloster.

"I see it feelingly."

Lieut. Holman was admitted to the Royal Society in 1826. A letter was read March, 1858, from Andrew Holman, Esq., Executor of the late Lieut. Holman, F. R. S., K. N., K. W., intimating that gentleman's bequest of his Portrait to the Society.

The Portrait of James Holman, Blind Traveller, painted by G. Chinnery, is now at Royal Society, London. Bequeathed by Mr. Holman.

"James Holman (1786-1857) was the fourth child of a chemist and druggist of Fore Street, Exeter, where he was born on Oct. 15, 1786. He entered the Navy as a first class Volunteer on board the Royal George on Dec. 7, 1798. From September, 1799, to April, 1805, he served on the Cambrian on the Home and American Stations, and subsequently was employed on the Leander and Cleopatra, of which last frigate he was appointed Lieutenant, Apr. 27, 1807. From Oct., 1808, to Nov., 1808, when invalided, he served on board the Guerriere, stationed on the coast of North America. At 25 he became totally blind, and soon after went to Edinburgh to study. On Sept. 29, 1812, he was appointed a Naval Knight of Windsor, but finding the quietude of the life there intolerable, he obtained leave of absence to travel.

"The titles of his books sufficiently indicate the course of his three journeys; the fourth and last were made through Spain and Portugal, Wallachia, Woldaver, Montenegro, Syria and Turkey. While occupied in preparing the Journals of this journey for the press, he died at his lodging near the Minories, London, on July 28, 1857, leaving his Manuscripts to a literary friend who had assisted him in the compilation of his former works. These Manuscripts still remain unpublished. Holman was a man of remarkable energy and perseverance, of cool intrepidity and restless curiosity. Though in London he was always attended by a servant, he was accustomed to go about without one abroad, travelling generally alone and trusting to his own sagacity and the sympathy of others. A portrait of him by George Chinnery belongs to the Royal Society (of which he was a fellow). There is a folio mezzotint of him by J. R. Jackson, after J. P. Knight (Evans, Cat. of Portraits), and several are prefixed to his books.

"He was author of:—

"(1) Narrative of a journey undertaken in the years 1819, 1820 and 1821, through France, Italy, Saxony, Switzerland, parts of Germany bordering on the Rhine, Holland, Netherlands, etc. Lond., 1822.

"(2) Travels through Russia, Siberia, Poland, Austria, Saxony, Prussia, Hanover, etc., in 1822, 1823, and 1824. While suffering from total blindness, these works give an account of the author being conducted, a state prisoner, from the eastern parts of Siberia. Lond., 1825, 2 vols. 8vo. 3d ed. Lond., 1832. 4th ed. 1834.

(P. 87.) "At the English Consul's I met a blind traveler, a Mr. Holman, who has been over Siberia, New Holland, and other remote regions, for the most part alone, and written some seven volumes of his travels. Traveling, he told me, was a passion with him. He could not sit at home. I walked home with him through the streets, admiring his indomitable energy. I saw him the next morning sitting on his mule, with the guide he had hired,—his strong frame, his manly English face, his gray beard and mustaches, and his sightless eyeballs gave him a noble appearance in the crowd of wondering Sicilians about him."—From Francis Parkman, by Henry Dwight Sedgwick. Houghton, Mifflin and Co., 1904.

Parkman was at Girgeneti, Sicily, when he made this entry in his diary, Jan., 1844.

JOSEPH GEORGE HOLMAN,—ACTOR AND DRAMATIST

Joseph George Holman, actor and dramatist, was born in London, 1764, married, 1798, and died Rockaway, L. I., Aug. 24, 1817, of yellow fever. He was the son of John, Major Holman, of St. Giles, Middlesex, Gentleman. Descended from Sir John Holman, Bart. He entered Queens College, Oxford, and matriculated 1783, aged eighteen years. (See biography from "Living Authors.")

He was the author of "What a Blunder" (music by Gretry, 1796), a comic opera in three acts, first performed at Theatre Royal, Haymarket, Aug. 14, 1800. He was also the author of "Abroad and at Home," and "Votary of Wealth," a comedy in five acts, London. Printed for W. Miller, Old Bond St., 1800, price 2 shillings. (Published also by J. Dicks Standard Plays, No. 304.) He was a rival of Kemble.

Joseph George Holman, actor, married 1798, the youngest daughter of Hon. and Rev. Frederick Hamilton, Vicar of Northampton. Rev. Frederick was one of a family of seventeen children. He was the second son by second wife, Lady Mary Gordon, and Lord Wm. Douglass Hamilton, who was created Earl of Selkirk.

He was the manager of Charleston, S. C., Theatre. In 1812 he played in New York and Philadelphia. He died on his way to New York.

See "European Magazine and London Review," Vol. 16, p. 219 for Romeo and Juliet, played by Holman at Covent Garden Theatre, Oct. 26, 1784. For portrait, see Vol. 6, p. 335, same Magazine. He wrote the plays "Red Cross Knights," "Love Gives the Alarm," "The Gazette Extraordinary," etc.

TAPESTRY (DECEMBER, 1698), BY LADY HOLMAN

Altar Tapestry, with twelve figures 4-6x3, worked by Lady Anastatia Howard Holman, is now in the church vestry at Weston Favell, Northampton. Anastatia was the daughter of Sir Wm. Howard, K. G., who was judicially murdered in Tower Hall, 1670. Her daughter, Ann, married her first cousin, the second Earl of Stafford. Anastatia died 1716. She was the wife of George Holman of Banbury, Oxford, son of Philip of Hertford Castle, M. P., who died 1669, and grandson of George, Knighted 1606.

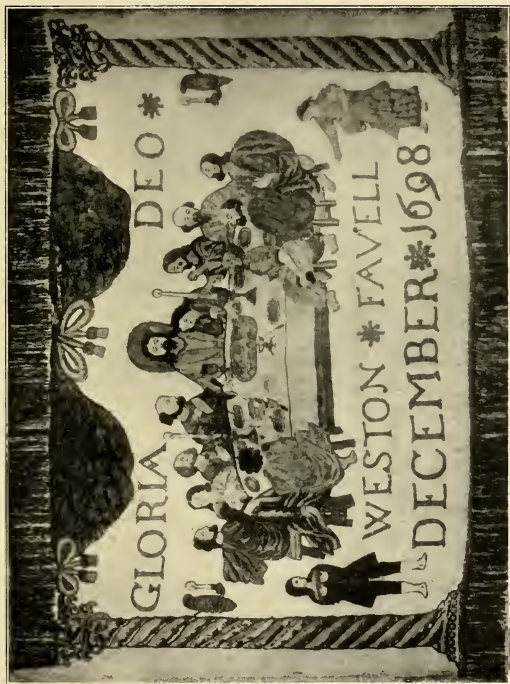

There is a brass tablet in Godstone Church, Surrey, put up by Robert Holman, M. P. for Surrey, to the memory of his father, George, the builder of Pendhill Court in 1694. The crest is an ostrich head out of a cap of maintenents; otherwise it is like all other Armorial bearings of the Holman family.

Under the Portrait of the "Blind Traveller Holman" in his book on Russia is written the following lines:

"Total eclipse; nor sun nor moon:
All dark amidst the blaze of noon."

In the Morden Church, Surrey, Eng., four hatchments with Holman arms are found impaled with other names.

TAPETRY BY LADY ANASTATIA HOLMAN, OF ENGLAND. (SEE PAGE XXI.)

FRANCIS HOLMAN, PAINTER, OF ST. GEORGE'S, MIDDLESEX, ENGLAND

HIS WILL

To my wife, Jane, interest of all my money in public funds and stocks for life, my household goods, stock of pictures, to become her sole property and gift at decease.

To my sister, Sarah Lucas, wife of William Lucas, or to her children, to be equally divided amongst them, if she shall be dead at the time of my wife's decease, one moiety or quarter part of the money I shall leave in stock at my decease. I give the same at the decease of my wife to Mary Richardson, wife of James Richardson, of St. George's, Middlesex, and daughter of my late sister, Ann Quince, or to her children, to be equally divided if she shall be dead at the decease of my wife. To Francis Holman, my nephew, and son to my brother, John Holman, of Ramsgate, mariner, or his children, if he have any at the time of my wife's death, if he is dead and no children, to be divided amongst the legatees in proportion that are then alive, one moiety after my wife's death. One moiety to my niece, Sarah Quince, daughter of my sister Ann Holman, wife of William Quince, mariner, of St. George's, Middlesex, and sister to Mary Richardson (the said Sarah Quince I believe to be living in some part of America), which if she is at the decease of my wife or any of her children shall make their claim good within five years after the decease of my wife, but if the said Sarah is now or shall be dead at that time it shall become theirs to be equally divided, but if no such claim be made within five years of my wife's decease one-half of the moiety that I leave to Sarah Quince shall become the property of her sister, Mary Richardson, and her heirs, and the other half to become the property of my nephew, John Quince, and in case he be not living to become the property of my sister, Sarah Lucas, or her children. I appoint my wife my sole executrix. 20th. Oct. 1783.—(Rockingham, Folio 648.)

14th. December, 1784. ## HIS PAINTINGS

Francis Holman, 1760-1790, of Cornish family, was a Marine painter, and resided among the seafaring folk in Shadwell and Wapping. There he painted several pictures of shipping, storms, sea-fight, etc., that have met with unmerited neglect. From the Catalogue of the Free Society of Artists, it appears that from 1767 to 1769 he resided at Bell Dock, Wapping, and Broad Street, St. George's, Middlesex, after that date.

SOME INTERESTING RECORDS

Mr. Andrew Jackson Holman, of Philadelphia, was the compiler of the most complete modern edition of the Bible, called the "Holman New Self-Pronouncing Sunday-School Teachers' Bible." Containing the Old and New Testaments; translated out of the original tongues; and with the former translations diligently compared and revised. Conformable to the edition of 1611, commonly known as the authorized or King James version. The text of the Old and New Testaments interspersed with eighty fine full-page photographic views of scenes in Bible Lands.

In records of the Revolutionary War the name of Holman appears as "Harmon," "Hobson," "Holdman," "Holeman," "Holliman," "Hollman," "Holmand," "Holmen," "Holmon," "Homan," "Homans,"—i.e., in the State of Massachusetts. Sixty-five men by the name of Holman were in the "War of 1776" from Massachusetts.

William Holman, Richmond, Va., 1876,—“Fertilizers Ventilated.”

Edward Holeman married, about 1665, Richard Hooper, born about 1646, daughter of Robert Hooper. Edward sold land Dec. 30, 1680.

Edward Holman, Sr., of Marblehead, and wife Richard deeded to their son John (mariner) Oct. 28, 1704, part of land where their house stood. Edward Holman made a Will May 4, 1711, to wife Richard and sons Edward, John, Peter, Phillip, and Joseph.

Mary Holman married at Newbury, Mass., Woodbridge Greenleaf, and her descendants became the cousins of the famous poet, John Greenleaf Whittier.

Mrs. Thomas Holman, of South Carolina, was in correspondence with the author by letter, dictated to her grandson, when she was 106 years of age. She died at the age of 108 years.

One of the young ladies of the Holman family became the fiancée of Signor "Marconi." So great was the attraction and personal charm of this member of our kindred, that it was said of her, that no one could be in her company without being thereby made better. It was, however, thought best to terminate the engagement. Her father was a man of brilliant attainments and endowed with all that would make a future full of great promise. Just at the height of his splendid career a fatal illness began to slowly develop, which demanded the greatest and most tender care of those about him, as well as the sympathy and love of a charming home. But the shadows deepened, the days grew darker, and the night came on, and a genial spirit went out into the World Unknown.

The Vital Records of Newbury, Mass., commence:

"A Record of Marriages for the Town of Newbury, began March 6, 1718-19." Of four verses of poetry, the third is:

"Love here unbounded, Lives and Reigns,
Ah! Happy Nymphs, thrice Happy Swains,
Whose yielding hearts, as well as hands,
Sweetly unite in Marriage Bands."

In Suffolk deeds, A deed of land by Robin Hood, Indian, to John Richards, is sealed and delivered in presence of John Holman, Nicholas Byram, and John Kinge, 1654, Bellingham,—Governor.

The will of Alexander Selkirk (Robinson Crusoe) has as witnesses Alexander Busham and Sarah Holman; witnessed before John Thomas, Jr., Notary Public of Wapping, Jan. 13, 1717-18. (N. E. Gen. Reg. 1896.)

The will was proved Dec. 5, 1723. He was four years on the island of Juan Fernandez.

A daughter of Abigail Holman (not of this line) married at Salt Lake City, Brigham Young, who was born Dec. 18, 1836, at Kirtland, Ohio. The son of Brigham and Mary Ann (Angell) Young. Their sixth child, Brigham, was born at Fruitland, New Mexico, Nov. 21, 1900.

Four of the sons of Peter Holman, of Dixfield, Me., married four young women by the name of "Newton." Three sisters and a cousin.

David C. Holman, born Millbury, Mass., Sept. 1, 1805, and his descendants became very much "Holman" through their ancestors, as follows:

GRAVE TOPICS FOUND IN CEMETERIES

Remarkable sentiments are sometimes found in epitaphs on tombstones. The following inscription is found in the graveyard at Rehoboth Village on the tombstone of Deacon Ephraim Bliss, who died 1786, Rehoboth, Mass.:

“The greedy worms devour my skin,
And gnaw my wasting flesh,
When God shall build these bones again,
He clothes them all afresh.”

This is found in another old country church yard:

“Here I lie, and no wonder I’m dead,
For the wheel of a wagon went over my head.”

This is from Schenectady, New York:

“He got a fish bone in his throat,
And then he sang an angel note.”

“Here lies the body of Obediah Wilkinson, and Ruth, his wife. Their warfare is accomplished.”

A dealer in monuments was both shocked and surprised at this request:

“Please put on the stone,—‘To my husband, in an appropriate place.’”

This is rather an unkind hint:

“Here lies the body of Sarah Sexton,
Who never did aught to vex one,
(Not like the woman under the next stone.)”

Ohio furnishes the following:

“Under this sod, and under these trees,
Lies the body of Solomon Pease,
He’s not in this hole, but only his pod,
He shelled out his soul and went up to God.”

Mr. Church, a resident of an old village in New England, many years after the death of his fourth wife, learned that the cemetery was to be removed. In this process, the graves and headstones became mixed by mistake. Therefore he decided to erect one new stone for them all. The following inscription was placed thereon:

“STRANGER, PAUSE AND DROP A TEAR,
FOR EMILY CHURCH LIES BURIED HERE:
MIXED IN SOME PERPLEXING MANNER,
WITH MARY, MATILDA, AND PROBABLY HANNAH.”

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Mrs. Winifred Holman, of Cambridge, Mass., was the first Christian Scientist of America, for which she was arrested and imprisoned, with her daughter Mary. Wm. Holman, the husband, having died Jan. 8, 1652-3, aged fifty-nine years. Their residence was the corner of Garden and Linnean Streets, where the Botanical Garden now stands. John Gibson lived opposite in plain view of the Holman residence. Some root of bitterness sprang up between them. Mr. Gibson entered complaint against them as witches and a warrant of peculiar form was issued for their arrest. One accusation by which John Gibson, Sr., tried to have Mrs. Holman and her daughter Mary tried as witches, was as follows: "Mr. Gibson's daughter, Mrs. Chas. Stearns, had two extraordinary strange fits, which she never had the like before. Mary Holman asked her why she did not get some help for them, and she answered that she could not tell what to do for she had used means by physicians and could have no help! Then the said Mary said that her mother said that if she would put herself into her hands that she would undertake to cure her with the blessing of God."

The form of the arrest was,—“To the Constable of Cambridge—You are requested forthwith to apprehend the persons of Widow Holman and her daughter, Mary, and immediately bring them before the County Court now sitting at Charlestown, to be examined on several accusations presented, on suspicion of witchcraft.”

“You are forthwith to bring them away and not suffer them to speak one with another after their knowledge of this warrant, and hereof you are not to faile at your peril.”

Dated 21. (4) 1659. Thomas Danforth, R.

“It will be convenient that you charge some met person to bring away the mayd first and then you may acquaint the mother also with the warrant respecting her also." (Hist. Cambridge, p. 356, Copy of Court Record.)

The Recorder of the Court, after many long trials, appended the following memorandum: "John Gibson, Jr., acknowledged in Court that, whereas he is legally convicted of a slanderous speech concerning Mary Holman, He is heartily sorry for his evil thereby committed against God and wrong done to the said Mary Holman and her friends, and doth crave forgiveness of the said Mary Holman of the trespass."

It does not appear that either of these persons were ever afterwards disturbed on suspicion of practising the diabolical art of witchcraft, although the mother was said to have cured children by Scriptural Injunction. Mrs. Holman is recorded to have died in peace Oct. 16, 1671, aged seventy-four years. Her daughter Mary died unmarried in 1673, aged forty-three years.

There are many descendants from Mrs. Holman's son, Jeremiah.

THE REV. J. W. HOLMAN, A DESCENDANT OF WILLIAM AND WINNIFRED

"In Providenece, R. I., May 16, 1873, Rev. J. W. Holman, Pastor of the North Stonington Baptist Church, aged sixty-eight years."

This death closed up an earthly life filled with earnest efforts for the good of man, and the glory of God.

Born in Maine, April 28, 1805.

In his childhood days, a Christian sister was permitted to mould and brighten his unfolding life. She instructed him, and guided him in religious truths.

He left Waterville to begin his ministry on foot to the settlements in the wilderness of New Brunswick. Subsequently, he served as Pastor in Philadelphia, Boston, New York, Maine, Franklin, Mass., and North Stonington, Conn.

He was the means of organizing ten churches, and such was his own catholicity of spirit, that, although he was a firm Baptist, he was sought by and served at different intervals, the churches of other denominations, as their regular preacher. As a thinker, clearness and originality of strength were his predominating characteristics. He took nothing for granted; he looked for the foundation. He knew where he stood, and how to keep his footing.

As a student, he was thorough, and left expositions of Divine Truth, which deserve public attention.

He studied medicine, also, and graduated with full honors as a Fellow of the Harvard Medical Society.

As a father, he was devoted, untiring and self-sacrificing. He threw his all-embracing arms of love around his children, carried them in his heart, lived for them, lived in their love and happiness.

He was a kind, affectionate, and attentive husband. He gave forty-nine years of service to the ministry of the Gospel, and four sons, all he had, to preach the Gospel after him.

He died at the home of his third son while on a visit there, with his wife, daughter and sons all by his side. He died with his mind as clear as sunlight, and speech strong as ever, to the very instant of departure.

He died at daybreak on the morning of the anniversary of the birth of his eldest son, May 16, 1873.

FROM A LETTER OF ELIZABETH (HOLEMAN) SMITH, WRITTEN IN 1887

My great-grandfather, and a brother, came to this country from England, long years before the War of the Revolution. But I do not know either of their given names, neither do I know when or where they landed. Arriving here, the brothers separated, and all trace of the other one has since been lost.

I do not know how many children my great-grandfather had; only, that one of them, William, is my grandfather. Beyond my grandfather, everything is vaguely traditional and uncertain.

My grandfather, William Holeman, was married twice, I think. The last wife was Sarah Johnson, a relative of Col. Dick Johnson. They lived in Surrey County, North Carolina. Here they reared nine children.

They were of the better class, living on a farm, the crops being tended by slaves. Three of these slaves were "Old Chania," "George," and "Charles."

David, my father, married Mary, daughter of Samuel and Chloe Welch, a grandniece of Daniel Webster. The wedding took place Sept. 27, 1814, in North Carolina, and they moved to Ohio on their wedding tour, she driving one horse and a two-wheeled gig, and he a wagon loaded with goods, which they would need in the new country. After arriving at their destination, they struck up a fire, which was obtained by striking a flint gunlock, catching the spark in a bunch of tow. They built their fire by a big log, and here they cooked and ate, sleeping in their covered wagon, until he cut down trees and built a house, or cabin, in which they lived many years, adding other improvements, until he accumulated some wealth. I have often heard him tell of the first cow they owned. A neighbor had two cows, and sold one to my father for two dollars, taking a pocket knife, and my mother being an expert with a needle, made him an overcoat, thus paying for the cow. Another neighbor had two pigs, and my father, wishing to go into the pork business, and, of course, having no money to invest, went and helped chop and saw and roll logs two days for a pig. Thus they got a start of cattle and hogs. My father often said those were sociable times, when everybody were new beginners, men exchanged work, as there was no money in the country. Men worked for bacon and meal, and women spun and wove all their clothing, making everything at home.

Father afterwards moved to Prebble County, Ohio (Eaton, the County Seat). While living there, my uncle, Samuel Holeman, father's youngest brother, moved there from North Carolina. He bought a farm near my father. The family rode in an old-fashioned stage coach. I thought it wonderfully fine. It was painted all up in such rich colors, yellow and red, with great spread eagle on the side, with gold beak and claws. It was indeed pretty. It had glass windows in the doors, etc. But after they got there it was of no earthly use to them, so Uncle set it down for us children for a playhouse, we thinking it grand, and filling it with Rag Dolls and Mud Pies.

David Holeman moved to Tippecanoe County, Indiana, near Lafayette, and while living there some of his consins from Southern Indiana paid him a visit, one of whom, in particular, I remember so well (altho' I was small). His name was Ruben Holeman. He had been captured by the Indians when a boy, and they, to brand him, had plucked all the hair off of a spot on the back of his head about as large as a dollar, which, when it grew in again, was perfectly white. David Holeman made several visits to his old North Carolina home, a distance of nine hundred miles, on horseback. It generally took him three weeks to make the trip one way, then three back. He always dressed well, and rode a fine horse, and made a fine appearance, and on one of those occasions he met an encounter which I will make mention. Some place amongst the Mountains, there suddenly appeared a rough looking character before him, dressed only in shirt and trousers, carrying a gun. Father, of course, not liking his appearance, yet spoke to him kindly, asking him if he had had any luck in hunting. The man answered and said he was not hunting but travelling, and if father had no objections they would travel together. To this, father, not knowing what else to do, readily assented, yet knowing there was a wilderness of more than twelve miles without a single inhabitant, which they would be obliged to go through. But father, thinking he could in some way get rid of him before reaching the wilderness, which was two days' travel before reaching it, allowing him to join him, but it was impossible to get rid of him. Father was afraid to get ahead of him, and the fellow would not go in advance, so there it was. Father would sometimes get him to let him carry the gun, as it was heavy, which the fellow would do, and father would unload the gun and ride very fast, but somehow the fellow would keep up. Father said he could walk like a deer. He asked all manner of questions regarding father's business in the East, had he taken cattle, or had he been to collect an estate? All of such questions, to which father seemed unconcerned, and answered coolly, said he had only been to visit his old widowed mother, for the last time, etc. The tough then began to scrutinize the horse, and asked questions about it, etc., all to the great discomfort of father. At the Tavern (as it was called then), they put up, and father thinking perhaps he could dodge him in the morning, gave orders to have his horse fed and ready at three o'clock in the morning, and it was as ordered, but when ready to start, behold the fellow was ready too; he had been watching. Father now saw he could not evade him, and concluded to go back to bed and wait until people began to pass to and fro. Well, the fellow went to bed too, and waited until ten o'clock next day. Father now was more than nonplussed. He did not know what to do. The next night they would cross the wilderness, yet father kept cool all day, talking of various things, yet knowing there was only one more "tavern" before entering the wilderness. He finally thought of a plan to which the would-be murderer readily consented. Father said to him, "As it is early, suppose you walk on ahead, and stop at the hotel and call for a real good supper and horse feed," and they would eat and rest awhile, then they would camp out, as it was warm. This exactly suited the fellow, so on he walked cheerfully, father watching, and as soon as he was fairly in the house, father said to his mare, "Now, Betty, run for your life," and he always said she understood what he said, and seemed to realize the situation and did run for dear life sure enough. On they went, as fast as the poor thing could go. Twice he thought he heard the word, "Halt! Halt!" but he did not halt, he made no reply, but kept on, on, on! He often said his hair stood on end, and expected every moment to be popped over, but after awhile, to his great relief, daylight began to dawn and he began to see settlements, he thanking God for his great deliverance. Hotel ahead, here he rested two days. After relating his experience of the previous night, they told him it was no uncommon occurrence to find men murdered in those woods.

Our home then was near Lafayette, Indiana. Father afterwards moved to Peru, Illinois, where he lived eighteen years. Then came to Carthage, Mo., where he died Nov. 19, 1874. His remains were taken back to the family lot in Peru Cemetery, Ill.

GEORGE, OF INDIANA, WHO WAS CAPTURED BY THE INDIANS

George Holman was born in Maryland, Feb. 11, 1762, and when young removed with his father to Penn. His mother died when he was a child, and his father placed him under the care of Henry Holman, a brother of his father.

When about sixteen years of age, he removed with his uncle, Henry Rue, to Kentucky. They were accompanied by a few other emigrants, among whom was Edward Holman, Henry's brother-in-law, a member of whose family was Richard Rue, a young man, two years older than George.

The company settled near the site of the present city of Louisville. In Feb., 1781, as a historian dates this event, Irvin Hinton, going to Harrodsburg for a load of flour, the young men, Rue and Holman, were sent with him as guards for his protection against the hostile Indians. While on their way, they were captured by a party of thirteen Indians, led by one Simon Girty, a white man, a native of Penn., and carried northward to Wapuccanatta, on the Anglaize, where they were compelled to run the gauntlet, and barely escaped death.

Hinton afterwards made his escape, was recaptured, and burned at the stake. Rue and Holman were sentenced to similar death,—Holman was secured by an Indian who adopted him as a son. After an affectionate, mutual embrace, Rue was tied to a stake, encircled by dry underbrush. As the fagots were about to be applied to the dry brush, a young Shawnee sprang into the ring, and with a tomahawk, chopped off the cord that bound him to the stake, led him out amidst plaudits of some, and threats of others, and adopted him as a brother, in place of one he had recently lost.

These young men were in captivity three and one-half years. Rue, who had been the last six months in Detroit, escaped with two other captives. After travelling nights, and resting by day for twenty days, and narrowly escaping death by starvation, they safely reached the Ohio River. The Indians who were dissatisfied with Holman's release, succeeded in getting him again put on trial, and by a majority of one vote, he was acquitted and again rescued from the stake.

The protracted war having brought great distress upon the Indians, they ceased hostilities for a time.

Holman proposed that if they would send him to Kentucky with a young Indian warrior, who knew the way to the Falls of the Ohio, that he would apply to a rich uncle for the needed supplies and obtain for them what they wanted. They assented, and Holman, with another prisoner and the young warrior, left Wapuccanatta. They soon arrived at the river with their guns and blankets lashed on their backs, and proceeded to Louisville, where Gen. Clark was then stationed with troops and military stores, where they staid all night.

It was the purpose of Holman to return and become a trader (so says the writer), but their friends, learning the object of their mission, offered the Indians all they wanted to procure the ransom of the prisoners. A few days after his arrival, he met at Edward Holman's, his friend and fellow prisoner, Rue, who had arrived three days before.

Before their captivity, Rue had been in several campaigns under Gen. Clark. After their return, Rue was in two and Holman in one. In 1803, Holman, with his friend Rue, and one or two others, came to Whitewater County, bought their lands two miles south of the present city of Richmond, and returned. The next year they came with their families, accompanied by numbers of their Kentucky friends. Remote from any settlement, their privations and sufferings were probably more severe than any of those who came after them.

Mr. Holman married Elizabeth Fisher in Kentucky. He had twelve children. Mr. Holman died —, 1854, in Richmond, Ind.

The mother of Richard Rue was Elizabeth Holman.

A TRIBUTE TO SENATOR WM. S. HOLMAN (OF THE LINE OF GEORGE, CAPTURED BY THE INDIANS)

"Senator Vest's tribute to the memory of Judge Holman, when eulogies were being pronounced in the Senate the other day, was brief, but to the point," says the Washington Post. "He said in concluding:—'No monument can be erected to his memory so splendid and enduring as his life's history. Always on guard, ever ready for conflict, if there was a flaw in his armor, the jobbers and lobbyists would have found it; but in all the years, under point of spear and edge of sword, his character for honesty and patriotism was never even assailed.'

"On the stone which marks his grave in the district that honored itself by giving him to the country, should be placed this epitaph: "Here sleeps William S. Holman, the honest, watchful, courageous Congressman, who never slept when guarding the national treasury against speculation and fraud." "

SCENES FROM THE SOUTHERN STATES.

EARLY HOLMANS IN VIRGINIA

The earliest records yet found are in 1635. A land grant to Thomas Holman, of James City County.

Family tradition (not yet proven by record) dates back to the landing of four brothers in 1610 at Jamestown after one year's delay by shipwreck on the Bermuda Islands, in company with Sir Thomas Gates, a fleet of nine vessels (with 500 people) having sailed from England in 1607, Newport being commander; Sir Thos. Gates was to be Lieutenant Governor of Virginia. When within a few days (about eight) of the shores of Virginia, they were caught in the tail of a hurricane and The Sea Venture with the rulers was separated from the rest of the company and finally landed on the Bermudas. (Ref. John Esten Cook's "Virginia" in "American Commonwealth.")

James Holman of Goochland County was a member of the House of Burgesses, beginning with a land grant Feb. 18, 1722.

His brother, Henry Holman, was in the same County in 1739. His Will was probated Aug. 19, 1740. His wife was named Mourning. They had children, (1) William, (2) Sarah, b —, 1739.

James was a member of the Virginia House of Burgesses, 1736 to 1740. (Ref. "Colonial Va.," by Stanard.) Paid two tithables in 1835. (Ref. "Wm. and Mary College Quarterly," Vol. 8.) Granted State Land patents 1722 to 1746—2841 acres in Goochland County. (Ref. Land Office Records, Richmond.) Other lands bought of private parties in same County. (Ref. Goochland County Records.) 1745 deeds 200 acres of land to only son James for "Love and affection, &c., in Mannikintown, south side of the James River, now in Cumberland County. (Ref. Goochland County Records.) James' funeral was preached June 12, 1759. (Ref. Douglas Goochland Parish Reg.) He was referred to as a planter and gentleman. This first James married Sarah (Mrs. or possibly Miss) Woodward. Mary Woodward and her daughter, Sarah, receive deed for 75 acres of land from James Holman, who refers to her as his wife's eldest daughter, June 4, 1742.

William Woodward, of James City County, receives deed for 100 acres lying near Sarah's, for the consideration of 37 pounds and 10s., June 16, 1755.

His only son James died before Nov. 23, 1761, as per probation of Will. He married Jane; they had 7 children.

The name of Tandy Holman appears in this same County in 1756, and his will was filed Nov. 13, 1760, in Albemarle County, Virginia.

GIFT OF A MEETING-HOUSE. FROM ESSEX COUNTY DEEDS, COURT HOUSE, SALEM, MASS., VOL. 61, P. 155

Solaman Holman, Thomas Follensbee, Enoch Little and Ezekiel Holes, Consecration and Donation received, on Record, Jan. 19, 1732.

To all persons to Whom this presents shall come, greeting.

Know ye, that we, Solaman Holman, Thomas Follensbee, Enoch Little and Ezekiel Holes, all of Newbury, County Essex, New England, being as (we hope,) animated with a becoming zeal for the glory of God, and the comfort and happiness of our neighbors in general, have built a good meeting-house for the Publick Worship of God, as it now stands at Huses Hill, so called, and whereas the great and general Courts have been pleased to establish a distinct precinct. We, the above, Solaman Holman, etc., do freely, willingly, and absolutely, give and grant to all our Brethren of our said precinct, and all and every person, male and female, that doth or hereafter may belong to our said Precinct, as good right and privilege in said house to waite on the publick worship as Ourselves have or shall have, and enjoy forever, and to have and enjoy the same privileges in said house in all respects according to their respective qualities which they should have had, if they had been joint builders with us, and the said house to be forever for the use of the said pre-

(Ref. Mass. Archives, Muster Rolls, Vol. No. 95, Page No. 515.)

Col. Jonathan gave to his sons, Peter, Jonathan and Ebenezer, land of 3000 acres in Dixfield, Maine, and Holman Town District, of Maine. He, with others, bought 19,130 acres of land in Dixfield. The Col. Jonathan Will of 1807, not the last one, which was 1812, 3000 acres mentioned.

WILL OF COL. JONATHAN HOLMAN

In the name of God, Amen.

I, Jonathan Holman, of Sutton, in the County of Worcester, Esquire, considering the uncertainty of Human Life, and the certainty of Death, being at this time in Comfortable Health, do make this, my last Will and Testament, in manner following:

In the first place, all just debts, etc.

To my wife, Susannah, I give Five Hundred Dollars, all my house Furniture, my chaise and two cows, to her own use and disposal Forever.

I also give to my said wife the Use and improvement of one-half of all my estate in Sutton and Ward during her natural Life, excepting, however, my Land lying near Ramshorn Pond in common with Mr. Jacobs. The afore Provision is in Lieu of all Dower in lands which I have owned during my intermarriage with the said Susannah, and is on the express Condition that she takes it with the Provision aforesaid.

Also—

I give to my son, Solomon, Five Hundred Dollars, to be paid by my son Elijah, as hereafter to be expressed.

Also—

I give to my Exeutor hereafter named, all my Lands in Braintree, in the State of Vermont, in Trust, and for the purpose hereafter mentioned. That is to say, The Use and Profits of those Lands are to be applied for the support and comfort of my said son, Solomon, during his natural Life, and in case my said son should die, leaving a widow, she is to have the Use and Profit of one-third of said Lands during her life, in common with the lawful heirs of my son Solomon. I give, devise and bequeath to the Children of my son, Solomon, born, or which may be hereafter born, and to their respective heirs, All my Lands in Braintree aforesaid in the following Proportions. That is to say,—a male to have twice as much as a female, but no division of said Lands are to be made until the Death of my said son Solomon and his wife. In order that the Estate may be kept for the comfort of the Family of Solomon.

Also—

I give to my son, Peter, Jonathan and Ebenezer and to their respective Heirs, and Assigns, all my Lands lying in Dixfield, and a place called Holman Town, in the District of Maine, to be equally divided share and share alike.

Also—

I give to my Daughter, Ruth Jacobs, and her Heirs, Eleven hundred and sixty-seven Dollars, to be paid by my Executors hereafter named, on Demand.

Also—

I give to my Daughter, Sukey, the wife of Asa Waters, Jr., Eleven hundred and sixty-seven Dollars, to be paid by my Executors hereafter named, on Demand.

Also—

I give to my Daughter, Nancy, Fifteen Hundred dollars, to be paid by my Executors on Demand.

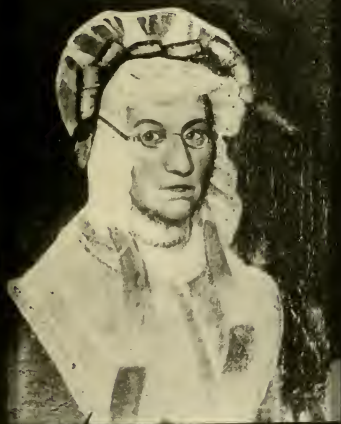

FINALLY:

All the rest and residue of my said estate, whether real, Personal or mixt, of whatever name or Nature soever, wheresoever the same may be found, I give, bequeath and devise to my Son, Elijah Holman, and to his Heirs and Assigns forever, on condition he pays or causes to be paid, all my just Debts, funeral charges and Legacies afore recited, and I constitute and Appoint the said Elijah, Sole Executor of this, my last Will and Testament.

In Testimony of all which I have hereunto set my hand and seal this seventh Day of Sept. A. D. 1812.

JONATHAN HOLMAN.

Signed, Sealed, Published, Pronounced and Declared by the said Jona-

He married, (1) at Sutton, July 4, 1760, Lucy Thurston, who was born Apr. 28, 1745, at Uxbridge, and died June 5, 1789, at West Millbury, and married, (2) June 10, 1790, Hannah Waters, who was born Dec. 7, 1741, and died July 3, 1813. She was the daughter of Nathaniel and Mary. Colonial Record, relief of Fort Henry, Aug. —, 1757. Edward Holman in the same Company. Dec. 29, 1758, with Capt. Solomon Holman's Company. (For ref. see Mass. Archives Muster Rolls, Vol. 95, p. 515.)

Lieut. David Holman served in the Revolution as First Lieutenant in Captain Andrew Elliott's Company, 5th Regiment, Worcester County, Mass. Militia, Col. Jonathan Holman, from Apr. 4 to Dec. 10, 1776, on the Hudson, and in Rhode Island. He was also Lieutenant in Capt. Abijah Burbanks' Company, Col. Jacob Davis, Reg. Mass. Militia, July 30-Aug. 7, 1780.

Lieut. David Holman, with his cousin, Colonel Jonathan Holman, were ranked among the bravest men who went out from Sutton. Eleven members of his family in Sutton, where he was born, fought in the Revolutionary War.

They were descended from one of the earliest families of Newburyport. Their landed interests, even then, were quite large, and extended eventually until they were the owners of several thousand acres of land. The Holman estates in Sutton, with their magnificent fields, their varied prospects, and their fine old colonial houses, have ever commanded admiration and attention.

When the tidings of the massacre in the streets of Boston in 1770, reached Sutton, it raised to fever heat the blood that coursed in the veins of the cousins, David and Jonathan, who had already struck telling blows for England in colonial service in the contest with France twelve years before.

Great Britain had, in the French War, made frequent levies upon the colonies for troops, and while she reserved to her men the higher grade of officers, she conferred most of the regimental ones upon the colonists, little dreaming she was training up a corps of officers who were destined to cope with, and vanquish her, ere long.

COL. JONATHAN HOLMAN, AND VIEWS OF HIS HOME AT SUTTON, MASS.

Washington served as Lieut. Col. under Gen. Braddock, Israel Putnam had several hard years of service as Captain; Ebenezer Larned, of Oxford, and Jonathan Holman, of Sutton, had both served long and suffered much, in the region of Lake George and Ticonderoga.

The clouds of the coming storm gathered thick and fast as months rolled by. The men of Sutton saddled their steeds and spurred for Lexington. They had been tutored by one who knew by experience that grim visaged war meant death to many brave hearts. That tutor was Jonathan Holman.

In 1776, Boston was evacuated. In Rhode Island and the Providence plantations this year, the regiment of Holman did effective service. We read of him with his cousin, Lieut. David, in July marching to New York, and on the 27th of August of the same year, their regiment received a baptism of fire near the city of New York. In October, at White Plains, the entire command of the Sutton officer received the commendations of his superiors.

At Bennington in 1777 we find Holman and his men opposing the onward march of the historic Burgoyne. They were present at his military death, and witnessed the humiliation of the proud English Lord on free American soil.

Under Schuyler and Gates, among the patriots concentrated at Saratoga in the Autumn of 1777, the records of Col. Holman and his men shine bright on the page of history.

"Hannah Waters Holman's will filed July 6, 1813. For a pair of grave stones being set and getting them, $1.50. She was sister to Samuel Waters of Leominster. She gave to Hannah W. Holman, daughter of Capt. Peter her gold necklace. Hannah (Widow,) was a daughter of Widow Mary Waters, of Sutton. Hannah had brother Joseph, of Sutton, and sister, Molly Small."

37 PETER<sup>4</sup> HOLMAN (Col. Jonathan<sup>3</sup>, Solomon<sup>2</sup>, Solaman<sup>1</sup>), son of Col. Jonathan and Hannah (Sibley) Holman, was born Oct. 16, 1769, at Sutton, Mass., and died Oct. 30, 1829. He married, —, 1796, Mercy Knight, of Peru, Me., who was born July 1, 1776, and died Dec. 9, 1855.

Before 1794, the Holmans had ten of the sixty parts of the Township of Dixfield and Mexico, called Holmantown, but afterwards called "Dixfield," as old Dr. Dix promised to give a library for the town. Marion Holman has original deed of Proprietors of Dixfield, Dec. 1, 1779.

The following is a brief sketch of the Holmans of Dixfield, Maine:

The towns of Dixfield and Mexico, Maine, were formerly called Holmantown.

The Dr. Dix that the History of Sutton said gave a liberal bounty for it, Dixfield, to be named after him, agreed to give a library, and the only thing he did was to bring a few old books down to Dixfield, then Holmantown, in

MRS. OLIVE (HOLMAN) SEVERY.

RUINS OF CAPTAIN JONATHAN HOLMAN'S HOME,
DIXFIELD, MAINE.

BUST OF MR. FRANK HOLMAN, OF PARIS,
FRANCE.

COL. JOHN JACOB HOLMAN.

MR. OLIVER HOLMAN,
OF PETERSHAM, MASS.

a small trunk. These books were left somewhere over on what they called "Severy Hill." No one ever knew what became of them. If it is mentioned at all in the Genealogy, "I hope he will not get the credit of something he did not do." This was mentioned in the article read at the reunion.

The three Holmans who went to Dixfield built their own sawmill, and got out the lumber for their homes. Two built large square frame houses, with a fireplace in each room, and the other brother, the same style house, but of brick. The two frame ones are standing to-day, in fine condition. The brick one was burned a few years ago, but it was so well built that the walls and eleven great fireplaces stood in good condition after the entire inside had burned out.

Peter settled at the centre. Jonathan made his clearing one mile away to East Dixfield. Ebenezer, a mile away to Dixfield village.

Nathan, a nephew of the Colonel, settled early in Dixfield. Elisha, a brother of Nathan, came in 1801, and settled at Weld, Maine. Col. Jonathan's brother, Daniel, settled at Livermore, Maine.

The first Holman reunion was held in the town house at Dixfield Center, Thursday, Aug. 15, 1901. About two hundred and fifty persons were present, most of them descendants of Peter, Jonathan and Ebenezer Holman, sons of Col. Jonathan Holman, and Hannah Sibley, his wife.

Col. Holman was a Major in the English Army during the French and Indian War, and a Colonel of the 5th Mass. Regiment of Militia during the Revolution. His father, Solomon Holman, was a Captain during the French and Indian War.

That Col. Holman and his regiment acquitted themselves bravely may be justly inferred from the fact that after the battle of Saratoga, this regiment was designated to take possession of Fort Edward, and to hold it until the dispersion of Burgoyne's Army, which they did. After returning from his campaign in New York, which ended with the surrender of Burgoyne, though not in the regular service, he continued active in the cause by raising troops from time to time for coast alarms, forwarding supplies and in various ways contributing to the grand result, and after the war, when Shay's rebellion rose, he promptly, of his own accord, raised a body of men, and marched to Petersham, to aid in suppressing it.

He happened to be in Boston on his way to Dixfield when the news of peace arrived, 1776. An express was started to carry the news to Portland, and, as that city lay on his route, he joined the express and left at the same time.

He had a powerful, high-spirited horse, which he called his "War horse." It was never broken to the harness, could be managed by no one but himself, and him only under the saddle. He did not stop to change horses, or look back, but rode straight on. Arrived in Portland some time before the express, and first proclaimed to the citizens of Portland the news of peace and independence. The express was a stage coach.

Col. Holman gave the land he owned in Township No. 1, on the North side of the Androscoggin River, now the towns of Dixfield and Mexico, formerly called Holmantown, to these three sons. (He owned seven of the sixty rights, and other Holmans were in possession of others. Solomon and David each owned one right.) Col. Holman was in the Province of Maine in August and September, 1787, looking for a township that he could purchase, and determined to obtain, and did, later, the township named. Besides this, the Colonel owned large tracts of land in Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Col. Holman's wife, Hannah Sibley, came from Uxbridge, Mass. The first Sibley came from England in 1629, and settled in Salem, Mass.

39 CAPT. JONATHAN<sup>4</sup> HOLMAN, JR. (Col. Jonathan<sup>3</sup>, Solomon<sup>2</sup>, Solaman<sup>1</sup>), (one-armed), son of Col. Jonathan and Hannah (Sibley) Holman, was born Jan. 3, 1774, and died Nov. 23, 1847, at Dixfield, aged seventy-three years. He married, May 2, 1799, at Sutton, Polly Cummings, daughter of Jacob and Bridget (Lilly) Cummings, of Sutton. She was born Dec., 1772, and died Oct. 8, 1848, aged seventy-five years, at Dixfield.

Capt. Jonathan soon followed his brothers, Peter and Ebenezer, to Dixfield, and, like them, cleared land, and later built the large brick house which he occupied until he died. These brothers all fashioned their houses alike,— a two story building, 40x45 ft. in dimensions. They are all occupied at the present time, excepting the brick house, which has recently burned.

40 EBENEZER WATERS<sup>4</sup> HOLMAN (Col. Jonathan<sup>3</sup>, Solomon<sup>2</sup>, Solomon<sup>1</sup>), son of Col. Jonathan and Hannah (Sibley) Holman, was born May 25, 1778, and died Jan. 19, 1876. South B. G. He is said to have lived 102 years, and seven months, and is buried in Dixfield. He married Sarah Knapp, who was born —, 1776, and died June 29, 1861, aged eighty-five years. His exact age by V. S. was 97 years, 8 months, and 25 days.

Mr. Holman settled in Dixfield, Me. He resembled his father, Col. Jonathan, in looks and appearance. He could read without glasses at the time he was said to be one hundred years of age. He married the granddaughter of Dr. Wm. McKnistry, Surgeon-Gen. of Hospitals, in Boston, during the War of the Revolution.

"Thus, after a long life of usefulness and honor, has this aged father in our midst, ended the toils of life. His vigor of mind and body was such that his last days were crowned with pleasant reflections. He was a man of industry, and the labors of his hands have yielded to him a generous return. He was a man of proverbial honesty, and merited the esteem of the whole community. He also held very decided religious views."

53 WATERS<sup>4</sup> HOLMAN (Daniel<sup>3</sup>, Solomon<sup>2</sup>, Solaman<sup>1</sup>), son of Daniel and Elizabeth (Pitts) Holman, was born May 19, 1796, at Livermore, Me., and died July 7, 1862, at North Wayne. He married, Oct. 24, 1827, Hannah Gould, of Millbury, Mass., who was born Aug. 27, 1801, and died Oct. 15, 1890.

Mr. Holman lived in the town of Wayne, and was a scythe maker by trade. His first shop was at Livermore, which preceded the famous scythe and axe works at North Wayne, Me. Mr. Holman went to Mass., to learn the trade, being able to turn out a finished scythe from the bar of iron. In 1827 he set up his trip hammer, journeying to Hollowell and Augusta for his stock. When a season's stock was ready, he traveled through the State, selling them to the farmers. One of these scythes, marked with his name, is now in the State House, at Augusta.

At the age of sixteen, he enlisted, War of 1812; also took part in Aroostook, Maine, War.

The following account was written for The Advertiser, and carries the heading: "Manufacture of Scythes; One of Livermore Falls' Earliest Industries. Business Done on Depot Street, Then But a Lane."

"It is a fact not generally known to most of the present residents of this busy village, that one of its early manufacturing enterprises was the making of scythes. In fact, this was the first shop built in the State of Maine for the making of scythes, as it preceded the famous Scythe and Axe Works at North Wayne, by several years.

"Its founder was Mr. Waters Holman, a native of the town of Livermore. He went to Massachusetts while young and learned his trade, thoroughly mastering all the details of turning out a finished scythe from the bar of iron. While in Massachusetts, he married Miss Hannah Gould, of Millbury. Returning to Livermore Falls about the year 1827, he built his shop at the foot of the hill, near where the grist mill stood, which was burned in the great fire.

"Here he set up his trip hammer, journeying to Hollowell and Augusta for his stock, with his own hands carried it through the different processes of welding, plating, finishing, etc., until he had a season's product made, then travelled through his own and adjoining towns disposing of them to the farmers. One of the scythes marked with his name, is in the State House, at Augusta.

"He built his dwelling house on what is now Depot Street, then but a lane. His garden occupying the exact site of the Riverside Hotel today. His house was just opposite in the lane. Here he lived, carrying on his business for twelve years, and here a part of his family of eight children were born. The eldest, dying while very young, was buried in the cemetery on Main Street. From here he removed to North Wayne, assisting in the building of the North Wayne Scythe Shops, and being in the employ of that company until his death in 1862."

60 JOHN<sup>4</sup> HOLMAN (Lt. David<sup>3</sup>, Edward<sup>2</sup>, Solaman<sup>1</sup>), son of Lt. David and Lucy (Thurston) Holman, was born Dec. 26, 1761, Sutton, Mass., and died about 1842, at Hague, N. Y. He married, May 9, 1786, at Worcester, Mass., Sally Stone, daughter of Levi and Mary, who was born Mar. 28, 1765, at Sutton, and died May 16, 1826, aged 71 years, g. s. buried at Hague, N. Y., but not in the same part of the cemetery as her husband, John.

Mr. Holman was first Justice of the Peace at Hague, and held the position until blind. He used a canoe dug out of a log to cross Lake George to go to Putnam and Orwell, Vt., for provisions, which took him a night and a day. He bought two hundred acres of land on a point at Lake George, that has recently been sold again for two thousand dollars. The original house had a slanting roof. He was overseer of highways, District No. 2, Apr. 2, 1822, also, Overseer of the Poor. When blind he lived with his children at Hague. A Revolutionary soldier, June 15, 1780, aged 18 years, six ft. in height, complexion light. Return dated "Camp ToToway, Oct. 25, 1780." Captain, Moses Howe Hartshorn, Colonel, Michael Jackson, Mass. Militia. Applied for pension from Hague, N. Y., Sept. 18, 1832. Allowed from Mar. 4, 1831. Last payment of twenty dollars for twelve months to Sept. 4, 1842. Resided at Ticonderoga, N. Y., Essex County, one year, previously at Hague, N. Y., Warren County. Leonard Holman's name appears as a witness to the mark of John, who was unable to write, as he was blind. One Record says he came with wife and six children to Princeton, Mass., 1800, taxed 1801. Moved away probably to Hague, N. Y. Princeton record gave the following children: Lucy, Solomon, Sally, John, Caleb and Amassa. V. S. of Sterling, gives the following children born to John and Annis Holman. He was present at the execution of Major André (from pension record) at Toppan, N. Y., Oct. 2, 1780. Major André was 29 years of age.

61 REV. NATHAN<sup>4</sup> HOLMAN (Lt. David<sup>3</sup>, Edward<sup>2</sup>, Solaman<sup>1</sup>) son of Lt. David and Lucy (Thurston) Holman, was born May 17, 1769, Sutton, Mass., and died Oct. 28, 1844, Attleboro, Mass. He married, Nov. 23, 1801, Lettice Morey, daughter of Hon. Sam'l and Mary (Hodges) Morey, who was born Dec. 25, 1768, Norton, Mass., and died Mar. 6, 1848, aged seventy-nine years, two months and thirteen days.

Rev. Nathan Holman was third son of Lieut. David and Lucy (Thurston) Holman, and was born in that part of Sutton now called Millbury, May 17, 1769. He descended from Solaman Holman, of Newbury, Mass. He labored upon his farm until his 21st year, when his ardent thirst for knowledge set him to work to procure a liberal education. He could expect but little assistance from his father, who had eleven children, but by uncommon adherence to his cherished purpose, he succeeded. He was graduated from Brown University in 1797, and later took his A. M. Degree with distinguished honors. He immediately commenced studying theology with Rev. Edmund Mills, of Sutton. He spent the close of his course with Rev. Dr. Emmons. He preached with great success, and had numerous calls.

Early in 1800 he commenced preaching in Attleboro, and was ordained there, Oct. 15, 1800, the successor of Rev. Ebenezer Lazell. After laboring twenty-one years, he was, to the regret of his people, dismissed May 22, 1821. He still resided in Attleboro, supplying destitute pulpits as he was able, while he lived. He died suddenly, Oct. 28, 1844, at the age of 75 years. His monument is conspicuous in the burying ground north of the meeting-house, where he spent his strength. A plain pyramidal shaft with the brief inscription above the usual dates, "Look to God."

At the time of Mr. Holman's settlement in Attleboro, the church was in a very low state. There had been but nine additions in eighteen years. There were but ten active male members, and none under fifty years of age.

The loom, by which Mr. Holman procured the means of his education, is still kept in working order in the garret at Attleboro, on which he plied the shuttle almost daily during his ministry. The first suit of clothes, says one of the sons, which he wore to meeting when a boy, were of his father's weaving. As evidence of Mr. Holman's perseverance, it is said that he studied Latin and Greek while at work in the field, setting open his book on the wall at one side of the plot of ground, and conning his declensions and paradigms, while he followed the plough, the hoe, or the scythe across and back. He thus worked his way through the farm and classics, at the same time.

A deep interest in religion marked the commencement of his ministry. He says in a sermon, "From the first sermon preached by me in the pulpit, some dated those serious impressions upon their minds, which resulted in their hopeful conversion." During the first two years of his ministry, forty-three members were added to the church. Then, for twelve years, religion declined, and only twelve were added. In 1814, his labors were blessed with another and very extensive revival. The work continued two years, and resulted in the addition of one hundred and thirty-four members to the church. The revival seemed to give new life to the church, and wrought a great change in the morals and habits of the people. Many interesting facts are related as connected with this work of Grace.

He was truly orthodox; was a clear, plain, discriminating preacher of the doctrine of Grace. As a pastor, he was eminently adapted to labor in seasons of religious interest. He embraced the system of Doctrine called "Hopkinsian."

He had ever a peculiar and impressive solemnity in the pulpit, especially in his prayers, which seldom failed to impart itself to the assembly. His manners and habits were marked by regularity, precision, firmness and industry. He had by nature a kind and benevolent disposition, and in all his intercourse as pastor, citizen, husband and father, the law of kindness was written in his heart. His style as a writer was pure and chaste. His productions are marked by a variety of subject, and every sentence tells upon the first impression. They abound in terse apothegms. Many sentences heard from his lips twenty years before, were still fresh in the mind, even to the exact phraseology.

Mr. Holman published several occasional sermons and addresses. (There is a published volume.) (?) He at one time labored in a revival at Franklin during the absence of Dr. Emmons, whose pulpit he was supplying.

The sermons preached during his pastorate of twenty-one years are carefully preserved at the old homestead in Attleboro, Mass. Among them is the sermon preached at the one hundredth birthday, at the home of Mr. Shepherd, the Ancient, who lived to the age of one hundred and four years. A funeral sermon preached at Brown University, at the death of our first President, George Washington. Some of the most important sermons are in the British Museum, London, England.

These facts are taken from "Historical Sketches," by Rev. J. Crane, page 41.

The following lines were written at the end of the Freshman Year at Brown University, Providence, R. I:

"RULES FOR REGULATING MY CONDUCT."

- i. "Never to neglect the addressing myself to the Supreme Governor of the Universe, morning and evening."

- ii. "To be particularly careful to shun all bad company, such as use profane and vulgar language, and are inattentive to their moral conduct."
- iii. "Never to speak in a jesting romantic way, but always to speak the truth, and in sincerity."
- iv. "Never to make the foibles and imperfections of others the theme of discourse, but when others do this, to speak well of the person thus spoken against, if possible."
- v. "At all times and in all places to treat every person with proper respect, as their station requires."
- vi. "To be particularly careful to keep the Sabbath, avoiding all things unnecessary to be performed on that day, and refraining as much as possible from the vanities that are so apt to attract the unwary mind."

"It is my earnest desire that I may pay proper attention to the above rules, and I do this day determine, the Grace of God assisting me, that I will follow them."

NATHAN HOLMAN.

Providence, June 28, 1794.

The following poetry, relating to the Rev. Nathan Holman, was written for the Attleboro Bi-Centennial Celebration:

"No one's memory here can go,
 So far back as eighteen ten,
 If perchance, it might be so,
 You would find the best of men
 Father Holman, settled here,
 Prompt, erect, devoid of fear,
 In a coat of clerical form,
 With a golden-headed cane,
 Manners,—hearty, frank and warm,
 Sermons,—solid, clear and plain."

The "Hopkinson belief was that all virtue and true holiness consists in disinterested benevolence and that all sin is selfishness." This reference is to the Reverend NATHAN HOLMAN and his doctrine of belief.

63 DR. THURSTON<sup>4</sup> HOLMAN (Lieut. David<sup>3</sup>, Edward<sup>2</sup> Solaman<sup>1</sup>), son of Lieut. David and Lucy (Thurston) Holman, was born Apr. 27, 1775, at Sutton, Mass., and died Apr. 18, 1836, at Hague, N. Y. He married Submit Park, who was born in Mass. or R. I., and died aged ninety-three years.

He moved from Sutton, Mass., and settled at Hague, N. Y., with his eldest brother, John. Thurston's books and other belongings were burned,—the house was half log and half frame. An old chest was saved, which was left by Lucy Holman Rand in house of Nathan Brooks' wife, at Schroon, N. Y. (Dr. Emory Dunn, her nephew, at Schroon, could give particulars.)

Thurston Holman had charge of roads, Dist. No. 1, Apr., 1827. He had two children born before coming to Hague, 1802-03.

Dr. Thurston Holman was 6 ft. 2 or 3 inches in height,—weight, 250 lbs. Submit Park, his wife, remembered the first gun fired at Battle of Lexington. She had a remarkable memory. He was Deacon. He died of apoplexy,—sick only a few hours.

Sutton, Mass., and died Nov. 16, 1866, aged eighty-nine years, at Douglass, Mass. He married, (1) Aug. 14, 1810, Clarissa Packard, who was born July 23, 1784, and died Nov. 14, 1823. He married, (2) Dec. 7, 1824, Lois Adams, who was born Mar. 4, 1784, and died Sept. 9, 1831. (Lois hung to scuttle door in garret.) He married, (3) Apr. 29, 1834, Sarah Cannon, who was born —, 1773, and died Nov. 26, 1884, aged ninety-one years and eight months.

Rev. David Holman, of Douglass, Mass., labored on his father's farm until twenty-one years of age. He entered the Sophomore Class at Brown University, Providence, R. I., in 1800, and was graduated from that institution in 1803. He taught for a time in an academy at Cumberland, R. I., then, for six months had charge of the grammar school in Worcester, Mass. He studied theology with his brother, Rev. Nathan Holman, and with Dr. Emmons, of Franklyn. He commenced his labors at Douglass in the autumn of 1807, and was ordained on the 19th of Oct., 1808, his brother preaching the sermon. Rev. Mr. Mills, of Sutton, offering the ordaining prayer, and the Rev. Dr. Emmons giving the charge. He continued a pastor of the church until Aug. 17, 1842, when, on account of impaired health, he was dismissed. For a few years he supplied various vacant pulpits in neighboring parishes. In 1848 he accepted an invitation from his people to resume his labors among them, and he continued to perform the duties of pastor for five years, though never installed. More than two hundred were added to his church. He was distinguished for correctness and propriety of conduct in all of the relations of life,—of strict integrity and uprightness.

Three times he was chosen to represent the town in the State Legislature. For forty-two years he held the office of Post-Master, having secured the commission under President Monroe.

He took a deep interest in the education of the young people. He was Chairman of the School Committee for more than thirty years. For fifty consecutive years he was called upon to open the annual town-meeting with prayer, and never did he fail to respond to the call until the March meeting preceding his death, when he was unable to be present.

As a theologian, his views were clear and discriminating. It was never difficult for him to state what he believed, or to give a scriptural reason for his belief. Though not eloquent, he was very impressive. He spoke as one who had a deep conviction of the truth, and importance of what he was saying.

As a pastor, he was faithful, kind and sympathetic,—ever ready to visit the sick, or administer consolation to the afflicted.

His character, as a Christian, was marked by uniformity, and consistency. His whole life showed that he was acting from religious principle. In speaking of truths, he said at the close of life,—“These Truths are precious,—more precious than silver or gold.”

His tombstone, in Douglass, Mass., reads :

MRS. LETTICE (MOREY) HOLMAN.
After a Portrait by Hunt.

"For 34 years pastor of the First Congregational Church in Douglass."
 "There is rest in Heaven."

71 OLIVE<sup>4</sup> HOLMAN (Solomon<sup>3</sup>, John<sup>2</sup>, Solaman<sup>1</sup>), daughter of Solomon and Sarah (Gould) Holman, was born Nov. 11, 1784, at Petersham, Mass., and died July 9, 1882, aged 98 yrs., at Dixfield, Me. She married, Feb. 17, 1805, at Petersham, Archibald Severy, son of Jacob and Abigail (Rhodes) Severy, who was born June 22, 1773, at Sutton, Mass., and died Feb. 4, 1856, at E. Dixfield, Me.

Mrs. Olive (Holman) Severy, widow of the late Archibald Severy, was aged 97 years, 7 months, and 28 days, at the time of her death. She, with her husband, were among the first pioneers and earliest settlers in the town of Dixfield. Four brothers, Asa, Aaron, Archibald, and Samuel Severy, came from Sutton, Worcester County, Mass., and settled in Dixfield more than 100 years ago. Dixfield was then called "Holmantown." It was almost an unbroken wilderness. They had an opportunity of selecting the best land in town for farming purposes. The first three brothers selected three adjoining lots in the East part of the town, which has for something over 100 years been called "Severy Hill." Time has shown that they were good judges of farming lands, for those three are among the very best farms in Dixfield. These three brothers built large houses, and barns, and out-buildings, and planted extensive orchards of apple trees, with plum and cherry, and other fruit trees. They also set out a lot of fine shade trees. They all three of them continued to live on those same farms during their long and honored lives, and died upon them in good old age.

MILITARY ORDER OF THE
LOYAL LEGION OF THE UNITED STATES.
Headquarters Commandery of the State of Maine.

PORTLAND, Sept. 20, 1906.

Extract of Tribute to the Memory of,
COMPANION CHARLES WESLEY KEYES,

Late Captain U. S. A. (Retired.)

which was adopted at a Stated Meeting of this Commandery, September 12, 1906.

Captain Charles Wesley Keyes was a farmer's son. He attended the common schools of Wilton, and was a student at Kent's Hill Seminary. At the age of nineteen years he was employed by his brother, Calvin Keyes, as a scythe finisher.

His military career was honorable and meritorious. From the official Army Register it appears that he held many official positions.

In the regular army he became a Second Lieutenant in the 44th Infantry, 28th of July, 1866. Accepted 1st June, 1867. Unassigned 27th May, 1869. Retired with rank of First Lieutenant, 31st of December, 1870. Captain of Infantry, retired, 23rd April, 1904. Brevet Captain, March 2, 1867. Loss of left leg from wound in line of duty.

After retiring from the active service of the Army, Captain Keyes purchased the Farmington Chronicle, and was proprietor and editor for about twelve years, when failing health compelled him to lay aside active business.

He was a Republican in politics, and in religious faith a Methodist. He was Trustee of Maine Wesleyan Seminary, and of the University of Maine.

His wife was formerly preceptress at Maine Wesleyan Seminary.

Captain Keyes was a good citizen, who merited the respect of his townsmen. He was loyal to his church, his political party, and his friends. Naturally generous and sympathetic, he contributed largely to the comfort and support of needy relatives, and his hand was always open to relieve distress. He was a cheerful giver in support of causes in which he believed.

Business was generally suspended in Farmington during his funeral, as a mark of respect to his memory, and the whole community felt the loss of a good man.

The following quotation is of interest:

"Mrs. Liberty Walker, of Bridgeton, late of Peru, has in her possession several articles of cotton and linen made in a hand loom nearly a century ago. A cotton sheet, stout as an ordinary table cloth, was made from the first lot of cotton warp yarn ever brought into the town of Livermore, and was made by Melinda Holman of that town, as a part of her wedding outfit. She was married to George Walker, of Peru, in 1812, and the home-made articles mentioned above are now cherished heirlooms in the family of Mrs. Walker. The loom in which these articles were woven is also the property of Mrs. Walker, who keeps it in good order and running briskly much of the time on rag carpets and other useful or ornamental fabrics. This loom was originally owned and used by 'Aunt Dolly Holman,' of Livermore, a notable weaver of the last century. It was given to her niece, Melinda Holman, who, during a long and busy life, wove many thousand yards of 'home-made.' After her marriage to Mr. Walker, and removal to Peru, she was one of the most famous spinners and weavers of that region. She is reported by her daughter-in-law, the present possessor of the loom, to have related that she kept an account of her income from weaving alone during the first few years of her married life, amounting to $400.00, which sum was but a fraction of her earnings during her long life, as she continued to spin and weave until past her 80th year. She died in Peru, in her 92nd year, Aug. 9, 1879."

General John Henry Holman was an architect and builder. Colonel 1st. United States Colored Vol. with rank Brevet Brig.-General. After the war was Superintendent of Construction of United States Buildings, in Oregon, Boston, Chicago, Nashville, and Knoxville, Tenn. He was a reader and historian. In the Rebellion he sided with his native State in the North.

He was in St. Louis, Mo., at the beginning of the Rebellion, in 1861, and was among the first to take sides with his native North,—a true patriot, and very zealous in the cause of his country. Union men rallied, and held meetings to decide upon the course to pursue, as they now were in danger. They met in a hall over a market. One morning it was found that a large cask of powder with a burned out fuse had been placed in the market. If successful, the whole neighborhood would have been in ruins.

His first service was in the Home Guard, in Gratz Brown's Regiment, where he was Provost Marshal. Then, he raised two companies of sharp shooters, and he was Captain in Command. This company joined the 26th Mo. Regt., 1st Brig. of the 3rd Division of the the Army of the Miss., where he was chosen Major of the 26th, then, chosen Lieut.-Colonel, and then Acting-Colonel down the river. He was in nearly all of the battles in the route. At the battle of Corinth, his horse was shot from under him. He was wounded in the ankle, bound up the wound himself, and went on and helped celebrate July 4th in Vicksburg.

May 26, 1863, he became Colonel of Colored Troops. He was seriously wounded at Petersburg, and had to retire from duty.

ii John Orrick, b. Nov. 24, 1854, Baltimore, Md.; d. Nov. 19, 1901; unmarried.

"John Orrick Holman, a civil engineer, in the employ of the United States Government, died early yesterday morning at Chester, Ill., to which city he had been summoned on official business. The end came very suddenly, as Mr. Holman only left St.

Louis Saturday, apparently in the best of health. The body will be brought back to this city, and the funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, No. 3744 Finney Ave.

"Mr. Holman was born in Baltimore, Md., Nov. 24, 1854. His father was the late Gen. John H. Holman. The family moved to St. Louis when the deceased was very young, and he received his education at the public schools here, subsequently graduating from the engineering department of Washington University. For many years the deceased was connected with the Government engineering corps, and made his headquarters in St. Louis."

159 OTIS HOLMES<sup>5</sup> HOLMAN (Abner<sup>4</sup>, Corp. Daniel<sup>3</sup>, Solomon<sup>2</sup>, Solaman<sup>1</sup>), son of Abner and Judith (Safford) Holman, was born Dec. 8, 1827, and died Jan. 26, 1864. He married, Sept. 15, 1857, at Memphis, Tenn., Elizabeth Cornelia Wynn, who was born Oct. 7, 1840, at Brooklyn, N. Y., and died —.

Otis Holmes Holman became a private in the War of the Rebellion, Aug. 22, 1862, Company G, 158th Regt. N. Y. Vol., commanded by Gen. Jourdan. After several months of illness in a hospital at Fortress Monroe, he was honorably discharged as Corporal, May 27, 1863, and died of consumption, aged 36 years.

Daniel Holman, grandfather of Otis Holmes Holman and Gen. John Henry Holman, came before 1789 to Livermore, Me., and settled on and developed the Holman farm, about a mile from North Livermore. His son, Abner, occupied the farm, and was a Fifer in the War of 1812. He was a builder, and many of his buildings are now standing. John Henry, and Otis Holmes Holman, sons of Abner, were architects. Gen. John Henry Holman later became Military Governor of Eastern North Carolina. His two sons, Minard and John D., resided in St. Louis, and were prominent civil engineers.

Otis Holmes Holman settled in Brooklyn, N. Y., and was also an engineer.

(Lindsay) Holman, was born Mar. 31, 1827, at Philadelphia, Pa., and died May 11, 1901, aged 74 years, 1 month, and 10 days. (V. S. Bangor, Me.) He married, (1) Lydia Provost; m. (2) Lillie Edwards. Living 1907 as E. E. Holman, Architect, 1020 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa. He had no children.

"Professor David Shepard Holman, of Philadelphia, the inventor of the Holman life slides and other accessories to the microscope, who died on Monday, although to a great extent self-educated and without the advantage of a scientific training, was a skilful microscopist, and devoted many years of his life in this city to the invention of devices for illustrating with the microscope the vital forces. In 1870 he became connected with the Franklin Institute, and the following year he was elected actuary of the society, which position he held until 1865. During this time he perfected many of his devices and inventions, delivered lectures, and, foreseeing the great advantages of the typewriting machine, he established a school of stenography and typewriting at the Institute which was very successful. He afterward taught stenography and typewriting at Girard College. He was a member of the Academy of Natural Sciences. After leaving the Franklin Institute, he identified himself with the Atlantic Refining Company, and for a number of years was in charge of the laboratory for testing the viscosity of oil. In this connection, also, his inventive genius led him to devising the 'viscosimeter.'"

In 1887, he was lecturing in the scientific field, and connected with the Franklyn Institute.

The Boston Weekly Commercial, Friday, Aug. 10, 1900, says:

"Prof. David Holman, a distinguished scientist, formerly of the Faculty of Girard College and Franklyn Institute, inventor of the phonoscope."

The following is extracted from Daggett's "History of Attleboro":

David Emory Holman was born October 12, 1805, in the house where his entire life, with the exception of a few years, was passed. After the town schools, he attended the Wrentham Academy, then well known and of excellent repute. Many Attleborough boys of that, and a later period, were students there, and, where we do not doubt they pursued their studies as good boys should, we are sure from the reminiscences we have heard, that some of them, at least, were zealous in the pursuit of sport, and highly successful in the playing of pranks. His fun-loving nature would place David Holman in the ranks of these merry lads, but his "jokes" would never absorb him to the neglect of duty, or the serious annoyance of anyone, no matter how sensitive. After completing his studies, he became a teacher, and as such met with good success. All who knew him would say this could scarcely be otherwise. He would have a most agreeable way of imparting instruction, good-humored patience in assisting the dull, or urging the indolent pupils, and he could illustrate every knotty point or gloomy passage with an "experience," and fix facts and dates in treacherous memories with some apt interesting story. He did not follow the profession of teaching, but entered business.

In 1835-36 he was Representative in the Legislature. He was at this time only thirty years of age, the youngest man ever sent from this town, and one of the youngest, if not the very youngest, ever sent to that body. It is rare that the choice falls upon one so youthful, and when it does so fall, it must show that the recipient of the honor has unusual ability.

Mr. Holman, who presided at the greatest celebration Attleboro had ever witnessed, July 4, 1853, proposed this prophetic toast:—"The Pearl of the Antilles."

"A tropic Isle,
In the bosom of the deep,
Where the skies forever smile,
And the oppressed forever weep."

Mr. Holman joined the Washington Rifle Corps, and when quite young became its Captain, filling the position admirably. Upon the breaking out of the Rebellion, he at once enlisted.

HIS EXCELLENCY,
JOHN A. ANDREW,

Governor and Commander-in-Chief
COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,

To David E. Holman, Attleborough, Greeting:—

Whereas, on the twenty-first day of May, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, you were elected Major, of the Fifteenth Regiment, and First Division of the Militia of this Commonwealth,—I do, by these presents, reposing special trust and confidence in your ability, courage and good conduct, commission you accordingly. You will, therefore, with honor and fidelity, discharge the duties of said office, according to the laws of this Commonwealth, and to Military Rule and Discipline. And all inferior officers and soldiers are hereby commanded to obey you in your said capacity, and you will yourself observe and follow such orders and instructions as you shall, from time to time, receive from the Commander-in-Chief, or others, your superior officers. (Whole Regiment transferred to 7th Mass. Vol. Inf. June 15, 1861.)

Given under my hand, and the seal of the Commonwealth, the Twenty-second day of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, eight hundred and sixty-one, and in the eighty-fifth year of the Independence of the United States of America.

OLIVER WARNER,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

By His Excellency, the Governor.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

THIS CERTIFIES THAT, David E. Holman, Commissioned as above, on this thirty-first day of May, A. D., 1861, personally appeared, and took and subscribed the Oaths and Declarations required by the Constitution and Laws of this Commonwealth, and a Law of the United States, to qualify him to discharge the duties of his Office.

Before me,

DARIUS F. CROUCH,
Col. 15th Regt.

He soon took the field with his regiment, but not long after he sustained a sunstroke, and returned home. This accident rendered a temporary leave of absence from active duty not only advisable, but necessary.

S. Atherton Holman, of Taunton, was Surgeon of same Regt., Co. C of 7th Mass. Vol. Had Lt. George F. Holman, of Cambridge, Mass.

HEAD QUARTERS DEPT. WASHINGTON,
WASHINGTON, D. C., August 1, 1861.

Special Order,

No. 254.

Major D. E. Holman, of the 7th Regt. of Mass. Volunteers, having tendered his resignation, is hereby honorably discharged from the service of the United States.

By Comm'and BRIG. GEN'L MANSFIELD.

Official.

O. GILMORE, Adjt. 7th
Mass. Volunteers.

By order of Col. Commanding.

To become a soldier did not change Major Holman's genial nature; he was always the same polite and affable gentleman. He recognized nothing derogatory to the dignity of an officer in the holding of friendly intercourse with the ranks when proper occasions offered. He always had a kind and cheery greeting for everyone in his regiment, for the subalterns, the privates, and the servants. This simple, and to him, natural politeness, gained for him the goodwill and affection of the men, but at the same time caused jealousy among a few of the higher officers, who doubtless wished themselves to gain the same goodwill of the men, but were unable or unwilling to pursue the same course.

The following resolutions, and their acknowledgment by Major Holman, speak for themselves:—

HEADQUARTERS 7TH REG. MASS. VOL. CO. I,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 29, 1861.

Resolved;—

That by the resignation of Maj. David Holman and Lieut. Wm. W. Fisher, of Attleboro, we have met with a loss which is most deeply felt by us all.

THE HOLMAN HOMESTEAD, AT ATTLEBORO, MASS.

Built by the Rev. Nathan Holman soon after 1799. Reproduced from an oil painting by Mr. Frank Holman.

Resolved;—

That by the mild, gentlemanly deportment, and unexceptionable character, which they have invariably sustained while here, they have gained the love and esteem of all with whom they came in contact.

Resolved;—

That we do most heartily approve of the manly spirit which prompted their resignation, and trust that their reception at home will be such as is due to men of unquestioned bravery, who early and earnestly devoted themselves to their country's call.

Voted;—That a copy of these Resolutions be forwarded to the Attleboro Weekly News, and also to the Taunton Gazette, for publication.

ATTLEBORO, Sept. 9, 1861.

MY DEAR SIR;—

Allow me to thank you, and through you, your companions in arms, for the complimentary resolutions referring to myself and Lieut. Fisher, which appeared in the Taunton Gazette of last week. Be assured though far away from you, your manly forms seem always passing before me. Your cheerful recognition as we met, can never be forgotten by me, and will ever be remembered with pleasure,—but the event that separated us has caused me more sorrow than any other event in my life, in the delirium of the moment I did not think of the sad consequences that would follow my resignation,—that I was to pass away from you alone,—for I had fondly hoped that when our work was done, that I should have the pleasure of presenting you all to our friends at home. But this, I fear, is not now to be my pleasant lot,—though I have sometimes vainly hoped that something might occur to send me back to you again. Once again I thank you, and as you pass about the camp, please remember me kindly to all, not forgetting even the servants.

yours truly,

D. E. HOLMAN.

This letter was addressed to Lieutenant William H. Wade, then a Sergeant in Company I. It should silence all doubt as to the writer's wish to return to his regiment, as the resolutions should prove the uprightness of his conduct.

All prospect of his being able to return to his command having come to an end, he went soon after to England. The climate of that country proved agreeable and beneficial to him. He retired from active business in 1873, and during the remaining ten years of his life, he lived quietly at the old homestead, and interested himself in the personal care of his farm lands.

In person, Maj. Holman was of commanding presence, being tall, vigorous in frame, and of marked military bearing. His stalwart form, which never seemed that of an old man, has often attracted notice in the procession on Memorial Day; he was a member of W. A. Streeter Post. G. A. R., and always joined them in their memorial offices. He was an unusually courteous man,—one of great urbanity of manner, but withal perfect sincerity. He possessed friendly feelings for all mankind, hatred was a thing unknown to his nature. He was always saying pleasant words, always doing kind deeds. His manners,—the same to all classes, high or low, rich or poor,—never changed, because they were a portion of himself. He was brought up in the old school of politeness, when children were taught to treat their elders and superiors with respect, to rise when their parents or elders entered a room where they were, “To bow to aged people, and strangers in the streets, to formulate a polite speech when sent out on an errand, and to answer every one, even their own parents, with ‘yes, ma’am,’ and ‘yes, sir’”; but, back of and beyond all outward training and example was the something innate which made him one of “Nature’s noblemen,”—a born gentleman.

His social qualities were very uncommon. The tones of his voice were musical and expressive, his choice of words apt, his language refined, and his mind stored with countless incidents and experiences which he had the faculty of appropriating readily to whatever might be the subject of conversation. He made himself agreeable to young and old alike, and became a chief attraction in whatever circle he entered. His faculty for telling stories was indeed remarkable, and the fund was apparently inexhaustible. Each one had a special point, and fitted with such peculiar exactness and place into which he put it, that it made a description perfect, which without it would have seemed unfinished, or a question discussed quite clear, that, wanting such an anecdote to explain it, might have been misunderstood. There is an old house in town at whose fireside in the years gone by Major Holman was a frequent and always a welcome visitor, for he and its owner were lifelong intimate friends. Again and again, after spending an hour or two there engaged in business talk or pleasant chat, he has risen and prepared to return home by putting on his greatcoat, but before he could get it buttoned, some amusing anecdote would suddenly occur to him proper to relate just then and there, and this would pave the way for another and another and another, and leaning on the chimney-piece, hat in hand, he has told story after story, himself and his listeners thoroughly absorbed and interested, and totally oblivious of the lapse of time, until the clock-hands pointed closely to the small hours of the morning. His style was inimitable; it was quiet and not dramatic, and his face in repose was somewhat serious, but it was easily lighted up, and the playful twinkle of his eye as he proceeded with his tale, and his low but hearty laugh, spread an irresistible contagion of merriment all around.

Charming and entertaining as a guest, he was equally so as a host. From the first the “Holman House” has been known as an “open house,” one of general and generous entertainment. Among the pleasantest of the many pleasant records found on the clerk’s book of the Washington Rifle Corps are those relating to certain meetings just preceding the sham fight near East village, which some of the old people still remember. Captain, announced to the company that on the day of the fight, "They could dine at father's," and we are told that this invitation was gladly accepted, and that some thirty or forty men sat down to a bountiful repast just before the battle. The mantle of the father fell upon the son, and the reputation he established in this direction was well maintained. Indeed the hospitable doors of that mansion were never closed; a room in it was always ready for strangers,—clergymen or lecturers, whoever they might be,—while a large circle of relatives and friends were always gathering within its walls, as well as the simple acquaintances at home and from abroad. All who crossed that threshold received a cordial welcome which placed them at their ease, while host and hostess vied with each other in their charming, graceful way, to make the hours pass pleasantly for their guests. During many years this house was the centre of hospitality in the village, and sad indeed was that event which broke up this pleasant home, and made those days of bright social intercourse only things of the past.

Mr. Holman was especially fond of his family and home, and the ties of kinship were with him peculiarly strong and binding. For eighty years he and his brother lived side by side,—sometimes in the same house—with a loving fellowship and a close unanimity which are very rare. He had deep and decided religious feelings, but never fashioned his creed exactly after the pattern of any one special sect, and therefore never identified himself with any church as a member. His last illness, which was caused by a disease of the heart, confined him to the house about four weeks, but was not considered imminently fatal until two days before his death. His cheerfulness triumphed over all suffering; to the very last his mind recalled bright reminiscences, and his ready tongue responded, bringing smiles to the lips of the physician and attending friends, though all realized the seriousness of the situation. To such a man death is not a "King of Terror," but simply an inevitable experience to be met with the same undisturbed serenity as are the ordinary affairs of daily life. Major Holman died December 10, 1883, and thus one of the most honorable of men, and one of the most worthy citizens the town has ever had, passed away.

MRS. CHARLOTTE JANE HOLMAN

"Her sweet and gracious presence seems still to pervade the familiar rooms of the 'Homestead.' Always daintily clothed, the beauty and strength of her life still lingers everywhere. What of happiness came to her, was freely shared by all; the ills and sorrows were received in silence and borne in secret; the world met with nothing but unfailing courtesy and kindly cheerfulness; the home was the center of the pleasantest hospitality, enjoyed by both young and old—strangers, relatives and friends.

"One rare characteristic was her unchangeableness; from the beginning to the end of her life, she was the same, for the gathering years touched her so lightly, that their weight was scarcely felt. Hers was a nature that could never grow old. She was ever hopeful. Life was full of bright anticipations, of pleasurable occupations, and through all of her varied experiences, she kept the enthusiasm and buoyancy of her youth. She had a quick intelligence, a ready, receptive mind, the power to grasp the thoughts and ideas of others, the power to think for herself and to impart all thoughts delightfully to others. She always had something to say, and a fascinating way of saying it. She had the rare gift of conversation, and the equally rare charm of manner that comes from perfect unconsciousness of self. She was fitted by nature and cultivation and exceptional beauty to grace any position in life. The polite world and the world of letters received her most kindly both at home and abroad. She accepted and made the most of the opportunities given, by cheerful, willing service, ennobling many of the smallest things in life. And she found abundant work for her willing hands to do, with numberless deeds of thoughtfulness for friends, of helpful visits to the sick and dying. With many social duties, she was never too busy to spend long hours with her children in their sports on rivers or in the woods. The homestead lot was a happy playground for the children of the neighborhood—which covered a wide range of territory—the house a refuge for them in trouble or distress, and she their ministering angel.

“With all that she had to do, she still found time to cultivate her mind and talents, for, in the best sense of the word she was ambitious. That was, perhaps, a chief underlying motive of her life and character, the keen desire to make the most and best of herself in every way, to stimulate the same desire in her sons, and to help them to the utmost in the fulfilment of her high hopes for them. But her ambition was not selfish, there was the same keen desire to help others to the higher plane of living, to work for the greatest development, the highest good of all who came within her influence. Mrs. Holman was a most gracious and charming woman, a sweet and gentle lady of the type fast passing away; pure in heart, pure in mind, pure in life, she was raised above all pettiness, all malice, all uncharitableness. She was full of loving kindness and tender mercy of high ideals and good purposes. She was a beautiful wife and mother, a real homemaker, a true and trusted friend. Volumes could be printed of her deeds of kindness, but, better far than that, they are written in the hearts of those whom she befriended. But the time came far too soon, when she, for the last time, passed down the shaded path, through long lines of relatives and friends, to the well-known gateway, under the great elm standing guard there for more than a century, across the ancient common, by the venerable church, whose bell was solemnly tolling, on to the family’s last resting-place in the Old Kirk Yard, just as the shadows of a beautiful day were lengthening, and the night coming on, and thus onward to the land of immortality.”

"Dr. David Emory HOLMAN inherited with his father's name his stately form and courteous bearing; this gentleman is making a brilliant career and wrestling from fortune everything called success in life. Gifted by nature in feature and physique, he has added to his acquisitions by every opportunity of education, travel, and social life, until he stands a prominent figure among a large circle of musical and literary people of New York City, where he was established as a physician. He graduated from the schools of Attleboro, Mass., Mowry and Goof's Preparatory School of Providence, R. I., and from Brown University, from which he received the degrees of A. B. and A. M. He taught school in Wisconsin and California. He then returned to New York where he studied medicine at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and received his M. D. from the Long Island College Hospital. He was Deputy Health Officer at the Bay of New York in 1880; a member of the Board of Health in the city in 1884. He has now retired to the 'Old Homestead,' the place of his birth."

iv Samuel Francis, b. Jan. 15, 1859; living 1909, Paris, France.

The following is taken from the Paris edition of The New York Herald:

Mr. Frank Holman, the American artist who has achieved for himself the title of one of the coming men in the ranks of the younger school of artists in Paris, occupies a particularly fine studio in the Ave de Breteuil, Paris, France.

Were you to ask me what kind of a man Mr. Holman is, I would reply that he is an artist jusqu'au bout des ongles. The spirit which causes him to play the piano and sing so well as he does, and to buy beautiful bits of furniture to adorn his home, is the same which gives him the talent of painting. It is simply the love of art.

In art he loves best those things which are delicate and simple. You have but to look around the walls of his studio to see that. Those few marguerites lying in a small bowl of clear water will give you an idea of Mr. Holman's love of simplicity in art. It is shown in his picture on the easel in the center of the room, which will in a few days be off on a journey to the Champ-de-Mars. He calls it "Melody." I should have felt inclined to call it "Harmony"—a harmony of light and color. The subject is simple. A young girl in evening dress, a dress of delicate violet, is seated at a piano with her back toward us. She has taken the music down from the stand in front of her. She rests it in front of her, and one would seem to hear her humming the notes prior to playing the piece. On the top of the dark piano is a white marble bust. To the right a large palm, and a clever light plays in strong relief upon the floor. A rich note of color is introduced in the chair upon which she is seated. It is a simple, natural, winning picture. Though in water-colors, the treatment is so broad that, until you look into it, you might imagine it to be an oil painting. A second picture, which Mr. Holman has just completed, is a life-size bust portrait of a lady with a Louis XV mirror behind her, and a pattern of green.

Mr. Holman is a native of Massachusetts, but was brought up in New York. After studying for a while in the National Academy of New York, he came over to Paris, and commenced his studies at the Ecole des Beaux-Arts under Cabanel and Carolus Duran. There he studied three years. One of his early pictures which made a hit was his "Interior of St. Germain-de-Pres." showing a number of figures kneeling, which was exhibited in New York, and which was at once purchased at a highly encouraging price.

The year 1885 saw his first Salon picture, in a full-length portrait. He has exhibited ever since. Mr. Holman is a figure painter and a colorist. In the latter direction he found ample scope in his travels through Africa and Spain, and last year we saw his "Rose of the Alhambra," a very harmonious picture of a beautiful Moorish girl, and an Oriental interior. That picture is now in a well-known gallery in New York. Also his pictures "Morocco" and "Judith."

To Berlin Mr. Holman has sent a duplicate of his Salon picture, "Melody"; also a study of a parroquet, and these calls upon him have well-nigh exhausted his stock of available canvases, and, if report be true, he has already secured a purchaser for his Salon picture of this year.

Mr. Holman has traveled considerably. Those splendid inlaid chairs which ornament his studio are of Venetian workmanship. Those curious-looking wooden bowls with inscriptions round them were brought back by him from Norway. He has visited nearly every country in Europe, except Russia. He knows Spain by heart, and Morocco is an open book to him.

He inherited from his rarely gifted and talented mother, Mrs. Charlotte Jane HOLMAN, his love and ability for art and he has made a brilliant career as a painter.

An American periodical speaks of "Mr. HOLMAN as a young man of great talents: added to that of painting, he plays the piano, sings, and is good at fencing, a fascinating conversationalist, quick at repartee, and a noted wit—He is distinguished looking, generous, and willing to extend a helping hand to all who come to him.—His chosen line is the figure. He paints with vigor and breadth and is remarkable for his color."

His "Titan Beauty" is brilliantly painted and his "Rose of the Alhambra" received flattering commendation from Messonier. His "Santa Maria della Salute" is full of rare Venetian sentiment. He has now become one of the most celebrated painters of Venetian scenes.

The following article, relating to Frank Holman, is from the October, 1908, issue of the Revista Internazionale Illustrata, of Torino, Italy:

"Pour apprécier comme il convient le talent de Frank Holman, qui s'est fait une place à part non seulement en Amérique, mais en Europe, parmi les peintres les plus distingués, il faut voir ses œuvres.

"Mr Holman est un jeune homme de grande valeur. A son talent de peintre il joint ceux de pianiste et d'élégant diseur; c'est de plus un amateur d'escrime émérite et son esprit a cette vivacité de repartie propre aux fines lames. Voyageur intrépide, il connaît tous les coins de l'Europe les plus artistiques. Frank Holman, né près de Boston, vint à Paris fort jeune, entra à l'Ecole des Beaux Arts, où il fut pendant trois ans l'élève du célèbre Cabanal et plus tard de Carolus-Duran. Ses tableaux présentent des qualités d'ensemble, de vigueur et de coloris qui leur ont valu d'ailleurs l'attention aux expositions de Londres, de Paris, de New-York, de Munich. Sa toile mauresque Morocco, exhibée à New-York, ainsi que celle intitulée Rose de l'Alhambra, à Londres, ont été enlevées à bon prix bien avant la clôture des expositions. Sa Judith a été regardée au Salon de Paris, et le portrait de sa mère a reçu une récompense. Son aquarelle Melody, représentant une jeune fille en toilette du soir, assise au piano, fut une des perles du Salon du Champ de Mars.

"Depuis quelques années Mr Frank Holman semble vouloir s'attacher plus particulièrement aux vues de Venise, et le succès répond pour lui aux efforts que requiert un genre aussi délicat. Plusieurs de ses tableaux de cette ville si poétique, si mystérieuse, qu'il a disposés le long de son ravissant atelier, présentent une finesse de touche remarquable, une richesse de reflets et une pureté de ciels exprimant tout ensemble la force et la douceur de son pinceau. Peu ou point d'accessoires, des fonds d'une simplicité rare sur lesquels se détache le seul motif du tableau sont 'sa manière' la plus fréquente. L'Amérique est fière d'avoir produit un artiste aussi distingué.

"Que pourrions-nous dire de plus et de mieux, si nous ajoutons que Frank Holman reçoit toutes les faveurs que la Ville Lumière sait si bien dispenser aux véritables artistes?"

Mary Hodges Holman, who married Mason Stone, May 20, 1845, was best understood in one phase of her character by the fact that the five children of the man whom she married, ranging in years from 19 to 5, loved her and revered her as an own mother and never saw any difference in her care of them and that of the two children born to her later. Her own children died in their youth,—one being 14 and the other 20,—and they were mourned by the first family of children for this mother's sake; as well as their own, with great sorrow.

A woman of commanding presence, yet so tender that the weak and suffering turned instinctively to her for strength and sympathy.

Her placid, smiling countenance spoke of a rested spirit; her stillness was that of one who had heard,—“Be still, and know that I am God.”

Uncompromising in her sense of God and His Rights, she gave no uncertain sound in the melody of her daily service. Well did she obey the Command, “Honor Thy Father,” for never did a clergyman's daughter better honor the calling of a father, and she always had a “Prophet's Chamber.” And to her came those ministers in the new Western country, so brave yet so weary sometimes, with their heavy burdens of discouragement in the starting of the church life of this new world, and she always had a heartening smile and wise word for them.

In the spring of 1853, Mr. Stone went West to select a new home in Wisconsin, and then went home for his family in the succeeding fall, leading that refined, cultured woman into the wilds of Pierce County, where she endured without a murmur the lonesome and hard life of the Pioneer's wife in those days. On that farm, and in the city of Prescott, a few miles from there, she spent the remainder of her earthly life.

One hardly dares mention her virtues, for she would so surely have been displeased in her humble sense of her own unworthiness. Her Home and her Church saw of the fruit of her labors before God took her to Himself. She still lives and labors, but now it is in the light of His Countenance.

200 PETER<sup>s</sup> HOLMAN (Maj. Peter<sup>4</sup>, Lieut. David<sup>3</sup>, Edward<sup>2</sup>, Solaman<sup>1</sup>), son of Maj. Peter and Lydia (Greenwood) Holman, was born Jan. 30, 1803, at Sutton, Mass., and died Jan. 21, 1892, Mt. Carroll, Ill. He married, —, Betsey Balcom, who was born Apr. 13, 1807, Warren County, N. Y., and died Apr. 1, 1886, Thompson, Ill. Peter was cousin to Park Holman, and not brother of Leonard.

Peter Holman was born in Sutton, North Parish, now Millbury, Worcester County, Mass., on the 30th day of January, 1803. He was the son of Peter and Lydia (Greenwood) Holman, of Scotch descent. He was one of twelve children, and was educated in common schools of his native state, receiving a liberal education for that period.

When 22 years of age, he emigrated to Hague, Warren County, N. Y., and settled upon the shores of Lake George. Here he taught school in the winter, and in summer was employed in the lumber business.

In 1827, he was married to Miss Betsy Balcom, to whom were born ten children.

In the spring of 1831, he visited the territory of Illinois for the purpose of selecting a location to settle. About this time Old Black Hawk was making trouble in the Northwest, and he decided to wait for more settled times. In 1833, he came West, and helped to build the Steam Mill at Knoxville, Knox County, Illinois, remaining in the State or Territory for two years, and in the meantime traveled extensively over the Northwestern Territory as far north as Green Bay, Fort Snelling, and Burnt Pine. The Northwest at the time was very "sparsely" settled, and but few pioneers were bold enough to brave the dangers and hardships of that day.

In 1836 he moved his family to Port Gibson, N. Y., where he remained one year. From thence he removed to West Henrietta, Monroe County, N. Y.

In 1844, he boarded a packet with his family at Rochester, and went to Buffalo, where they took steamer for Chicago, and thence with teams to York, Carroll County, Illinois, where he was engaged in farming until 1863, when he moved to Thompson, Carroll County, Illinois. He was appointed the first Postmaster of the village, which position he held for twenty-two years. At the first regular town meeting of York Township, April 2, 1850, he was elected the first Justice of the Peace of the town, which office he held for twenty-four years. He held at different times various other town offices.

He belonged to the Free Mason Lodge, and in July, 1825, was raised to the degree of Master Mason of Olive Branch Lodge, in Sutton, Mass.

Then she taught in the Senior Department of the old 12th Street High School in New York City from its foundation in 1855 until 1870, when she was transferred to the Normal College of New York City, which was started in that year. Here her great life work was done, in training successive classes for thirty-two years. She taught several subjects, but at first her specialty was Zoology, and in that subject she enjoyed a course of training under Prof. Louis Agassiz at Penikese in 1872. Later her main subjects were Latin and Greek. During her connection with the Normal College, she witnessed its immense growth and development, and by her own enthusiastic labors, contributed not a little to its success. She endeared herself by her hearty interest and contagious enthusiasm for study, to the generations of girls who passed through the Normal College, and has now a host of friends among them. On account of the failure of her eyesight, she resigned very reluctantly in December, 1902, after one of the longest periods of teaching of any teacher. She continues to make her home at No. 112 E. 32nd Street, and at her summer place in Niantic, Conn.

Interred at Cincinnati, Ohio. She married, Dec. 26, 1853, at Millbury, Mass., Judge Alphonso Taft, who was born Nov. 5, 1810, at Townsend, Vt., and died May 21, 1891.

Judge Alphonso Taft, of Cincinnati, was twice elected to the bench without opposition; once, appointed by the Governor to fill a vacancy. A graduate of Yale, 1833.

After the resignation of Gen. Belknap in March, 1876, Judge Taft was made Secretary of War, which office he held until the May following, and then became Attorney-General under President U. S. Grant. President Arthur appointed him successively Minister to Austria and Russia, 1883-85, 1885-87.

In 1875 he had been a candidate for the nomination of Governor of Ohio, but a dissenting opinion that he had delivered on the question of the Bible in the public schools was the cause of much opposition. The opinion that defeated his nomination was afterwards unanimously affirmed by the Supreme Court, and is now the law of the State. It was after that affair Gen. Grant selected him for the then vacant office of Secretary of War.

Yale College gave him the degree of LL.D. in 1867.

Judge Taft was twice married. His eldest son, Charles P. Taft, is proprietor of Cincinnati Times-Star.

At the death of Judge Taft, according to instructions from the Secretary of War, Gen. McCook tendered a guard of honor of the U. S. Army for the body, but Mrs. Taft declined, with due appreciation of the honor.

GENEALOGY OF THE TAFTS.

The Family History Compiled by President Taft's Mother.

The first ancestor of President Taft revealed by the late Judge Taft's researches was Robert Taft, a housewright (born about 1645, died Feb. 8, 1725), who went from the then Province of Braintree and settled at Mendon, Mass., in 1669. He and wife Sarah had five sons, one of whom, Joseph, born in 1680, married (1708) Elizabeth Emerson (born Mar. 6, 1687, at Ipswich, died 1760 at Uxbridge), the granddaughter of the first minister of Mendon, and died June 18, 1747, at Uxbridge.

Joseph's second son was Captain Peter Taft, born in 1715, whose wife, Elizabeth Cheney, was born Sept. 21, 1707, at Medfield, Mass.

Captain Peter's third son was Aaron, born May 28, 1743. He was fitted for Princeton, but had to leave college before he had finished, although he had already established a reputation as a scholar. He settled in Uxbridge, Mass., but removed, Mar. 9, 1799, to Townsend, Vt., where he died Mar. 26, 1808. Their household goods were loaded upon a sled and drawn by two yoke of oxen to their new home. The snow was so deep that it took nineteen pairs of oxen to move their belongings at the latter part of the journey. Aaron Taft married (1768) Rhoda Rawson, who was born Oct. 4, 1749; died June 9, 1827, at Townsend. She was the great-great-granddaughter of Edward Rawson, secretary of the Massachusetts Bay Colony from 1650 to 1686.

Peter Rawson Taft, the third son of Aaron, born Apr. 14, 1785, married Sylvia Howard in 1810. He taught school and was admitted to the bar. He became judge of the common pleas, judge of the probate court, judge of the county court of Windham County, was one of the county commissioners, and was for many years a member of the legislature. He was 14 years old when his parents moved to Townsend, to which place he walked, leading the cow.

He removed to Cincinnati in 1841, where he died in 1867, leaving one son, Alphonso. Alphonso Taft was admitted to the bar in 1838 and went to Cincinnati the next year. In 1857 he argued before the United States Supreme Court the claim of the city for the bequest of Charles McMicken, which secured the nucleus of the endowment fund for the University of

MRS. LOUISA MARIA TAFT,
The Mother of President Wm. H. Taft.

Cincinnati. Mrs. Taft wrote concerning her husband's reputation while he was judge of the Supreme Court:

"No young man was ever turned away because his case was considered too small for the judge's patience; no experienced lawyer ever felt his case too large or the questions involved too intricate for the judge's capacity and learning."

Mrs. Taft was descended from William Torrey, who went from Somerset, England, to Weymouth, Mass., in 1640. He was for many years a member of the house of deputies and was always chosen clerk. He was a magistrate and captain of militia and died in 1690.

The fifth William in the line of descent was reported to have been six feet, seven inches tall. He was the father of Samuel Davenport Torrey and grandfather of Mrs. Taft.

The President's grandmother, Susan Holman Torrey, "was a woman of rare endowment and character," wrote Mrs. Taft, "well educated for the period, and her highest interest was always in the world of thought. She had an irresistible desire to know the best that had been written in literature and philosophy, and she had the courage to follow the new views of truth, which her active and progressive mind attained, to their conclusions."

Of her father, Mrs. Taft wrote:

"Mr. Torrey will be long remembered as a man of marked individuality, of thorough business methods, of inflexible integrity, with a decision and force of character which left a lasting impression wherever he was known."

Judge Taft's first wife, Fanny Phelps, was a daughter of Judge Charles Phelps, of Townsend, Vt. She died in 1851. Three children were born to her, one of whom died in infancy. Charles Phelps Taft, the second son, is the proprietor of the Cincinnati Times-Star. The third son, Peter Rawson Taft, died in 1888.

William Howard Taft, the eldest living son of Judge Alphonso Taft and his second wife, Louisa M. Torrey, was elected Nov. 3, 1908, the twenty-seventh President of the United States.

"The fact that, throughout his long and honorable public career, he has received promotion continuously," wrote Mrs. Alphonso Taft concerning her son, "is ample evidence of his capability and reliability and of the sterling integrity of his character. In October, 1906, he was sent to Cuba by President Roosevelt to direct the restoration of order, and discharged the delicate duties with signal sagacity and success."

William Howard Taft's ancestry through the Thurston family begins with the marriage, Mar. 12, 1668, of Hannah Thurston, who was born in 1650, and died Dec. 29, 1690, to Joseph Cheney, who was born July 27, 1685, and died in 1754. She was the eighth child of John and Margaret Thurston. John was born Jan. 13, 1601, at Wrentham, Suffolk county, England, and died Nov. 1, 1683. Margaret was born 1605, and died May 9, 1662. The family came from England in the ship Mary Ann of Yarmouth, when Margaret was about 32 years old, and they brought their two sons with them. They were received into the church at Dedham, Mass., Jan. 28, 1640. John Thurston attended a meeting in Nov., 1644, to provide some means of education for the youth. His estate was set off from the town of Dedham in 1615, becoming a part of Medfield. The family finally settled at Wrentham, giving the town its name.

Joseph and Hannah (Thurston) Cheney's son, Josiah (born July 27, 1685; died 1754), married Hannah Mason (died Apr. 22, 1717), and their daughter, Elizabeth (born Sept. 21, 1707), married Captain Peter Rawson Taft.

Mr. Chas. J. Holman went to Yankton, Dakota, then Indian Territory. His claim taken up embraced the western half of Yankton. After three weeks, Indians drove him across the river, but in two weeks time he returned, and built a log cabin, 16 x 16. Sixty Sioux Indians tried to drive him and his party away, and five or six would point rifles at him, but the Indians had orders from the Government not to shoot unless first fired upon by the white men. Finally, the cabin was destroyed by the Indians, and in 1858 he returned home. Then, Horace Greeley's letter on Pike's Peak tempted him Westward again. He drove the first team from Canon City to South Park, 1862, and carried freight across the Plains, but finally came home to remain.

Entered the Law School of Cincinnati College, 1878, graduating May, 1880, with the Degree of B. L., dividing the first prize.

Sincerely yours J. M. T. L.

Admitted to bar of Supreme Court of Ohio, May, 1880. Law reporter, Cincinnati Times, and subsequently Cincinnati Commercial, 1880. Appointed Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, January, 1881. Resigned, March, 1882, to become Collector of Internal Revenue, First District, Ohio, under President Arthur. Resigned Collectorship, March, 1888, to enter practice of law. Continued practice until March, 1887, holding meantime from January, 1885, office of Assistant County Solicitor, Hamilton County. March, 1887, appointed by Governor Foraker, Judge Superior Court of Cincinnati, to fill vacancy caused by resignation of Judson Harmon. April, 1888, was elected to succeed himself Judge, Superior Court, for five years. Resigned, March, 1892, to become United States Circuit Judge for Sixth Judicial Circuit and ex-officio member Circuit Court of Appeals of Sixth Circuit. June, 1903, received honorary degree LL. D. from Yale University. In 1896 became Professor and Dean of Law Department of University of Cincinnati. Resigned, March, 1900, Circuit Judgeship and Deanship, to become, by appointment of President McKinley, President United States Philippines Commission. July 4, 1901, by appointment of President McKinley, became first Civil Governor of the Philippine Islands. November 1, 1901, turned over office of Governor to Vice Governor Wright on account of illness. December 23, 1901, by order of Secretary of War, visited United States and Washington to testify before Senate Committee on Philippine and Home Committee of Insular Affairs. Testified before two committees for six weeks. February 22, 1902, received degree LL. D. from University of Pennsylvania. May 17, 1902, called from United States to Rome, by order of President Roosevelt and Secretary Root, to confer with Pope Leo XIII., concerning purchase of agricultural lands of Religious Orders in the Philippines. Held conference with Committee of Cardinals, June and July, and reached general basis for agreement. Sailed, Naples, July 10th, for Philippines. Reached Philippines August 22, 1902, and resumed office Civil Governor. Dec. 23, 1903, sailed to United States to become Secretary of War. Was appointed Secretary of War February 1, 1904.

November-December, 1904, visited Panama to confer with the Panama authorities, by direction of the President, upon questions arising with reference to government of the Canal Zone.

LL. D. Harvard, 1905. LL. D. Miami, 1905.

July, August and September, 1905, visited on a tour of inspection, Philippine Islands with a party of Senators and Representatives.

September-October, 1900, visited Cuba, under direction of the President, to confer with the people for the purpose of arranging peace. Acted for a short time as Provisional Governor of that Island.

Visited Panama, Cuba and Porto Rico in March and April, 1907, by direction of the President, to attend to various matters and look into conditions.

Peace was the keynote of the Secretary of War as he crossed two continents and two oceans in one hundred and thirty-five days. He started from Washington August 18, 1907, to circle the globe. He traversed more than thirty thousand miles. He was warmly welcomed in the Royal households of three Empires. The Secretary, with his wife and son Charles, and party, were received with marked cordiality and friendliness. He left Seattle, Sept. 12th, on the Minnesota, arriving Sept. 27th in Yokohama. Committees of the Imperial household and representatives of the Japanese Government came from Tokio to meet them. The harbor and streets were in full decoration. They went to Tokio with great pomp and the freedom of the Shiba Palace was given them, where the Mikado entertains only royal guests. Festivals, banquets and receptions were given to him on every hand. He reached Shanghai Oct. 8th. There he dedicated the new Y. M. C. A. building, and was entertained by distinguished Chinamen. Hong Kong was reached Oct. 12th. Manila was reached Oct. 15th, where the reception was most enthusiastic. Mr. Taft opened the first National Assembly, which convened in the National Theater of Manila, where he delivered a message directly from President Roosevelt. On Nov. 8th he left Manila in the converted cruiser Rainbow, led by the Galveston and the Chattanooga on the journey for Vladivostok, which was reached Nov. 17th. From there the long nine-thousand-mile ride over the Trans-Siberian Railway under the direction of the Czar was commenced. Once on the way the train was nearly wrecked by a head-on collision, but Mr. Taft escaped uninjured. The train reached Moscow Nov. 31st. Visits were made to famous places, including the ancient Kremlin. Both government and people received the party most cordially. St. Petersburg, in Russia, was reached Dec. 3rd. He was escorted to the Duma, where he met many Russian officials. He was received in audience by the Czar and entertained at the Czarskoe-Selo Palace. He left St. Petersburg Dec. 5th, and steamed from Hamburg on the President Grant, Dec. 7th. The entire trip was taken in behalf of the government on important diplomatic missions, which resulted most satisfactorily for the peace of those nations concerned.

The journey home was hastened on account of the failing health of Mr. Taft's mother,—a woman most gifted with intelligence and personal charm—distinguished in appearance and most aristocratic in bearing. She was well adapted to the customs of the best society of America and Europe and resided in the Courts of Austria and Russia while her husband was Minister to those countries. But the light of her beautiful countenance fled from the world and left only a memory to greet her distinguished son on his return home.

Probably no candidate for the office of President of the United States has had wider experience and become better fitted to successfully carry on the work of the government than William H. Taft. President Roosevelt said of him, that he would cheerfully walk on his hands and knees from the White House to the Capitol that if by so doing he could see William Howard Taft inaugurated as President. Even his political opponent, Senator Foraker, said that no one could meet Taft and not love him as a man.

During the last political campaign and election, when all adverse powers of every description—the disgruntled politician—the different iconoclastic parties of various descriptions under attractive names—and every bad element in the country came forward to oppose the established conditions of government and exhausted their utmost powers to defeat the Republican National candidate, then all well disposed and right thinking men were aroused by the opponents' efforts, and rallied around their standard-bearer, until the Nation gave 321 electoral votes on Nov. 3rd, 1908, to place at the head of our country a splendid family representative of all that is best in American society, of ancestry, high education, scholarly attainment and ideal home life.

HOLMAN HERALDRY

The accompanying illustration is the coat of arms of the Holman family. Baron John Holman, August 22, 1485, was standard bearer in the battle of Bosworth Field which terminated in the celebrated "War of the Roses" between the rival houses of York and Lancaster, in which Richard III. lost his crown and his life. The great-great-grandson of Baron Holman, Sir John (Richard<sup>1</sup>, William<sup>3</sup>, John<sup>2</sup>, John<sup>1</sup>), was living in Sutton, Devonshire, Eng., in 1623.

Sutton, Mass., was settled by Edward, Thomas and Solomon, sons of the emigrant settler, Solaman Holman. But this Sutton probably had no relation to the Sutton, Eng.

According to Burke's General Armory, the Holman family, of London, bore the following arms:

Vert—A chev. or, between three pheons ar.

Crest—On a chapeau gu, turned up em, an ostrich's head ar. No motto given.

Those of Branbury, County Oxford, bore the same arms.

Crest—A bow and arrow fesseways on the bow, all ar. No motto.
